New zoning law makes 7-Mack high rise possible

By Mike Andrzejczyk

A new Grosse Pointe Woods zoning ordinance that includes provisions for high rise, multiple dwellings, restricted office and parking districts will come before the City Council April 1 for possible adoption.

The goal of the revised ordinance is to make it easier for the Woods to develop more taxable land, according to Brandon Rogers, the Woods planning consultant.

The city has the option of adding a high intensity commercial center district, restricted office zones, vehicular parking areas, and condominiums, under the new ordinance, he said.

"They (proposed zoning areas) may never come to pass, but at least they're there if needed," Rogers said.

If the ordinance is approved, standards for development of high rise office and residential buildings, office buildings and parking lots will be established.

A high intensity city center district will be confined to the Seven Mack shopping area, from Bournemouth to the southern city limits, and provide a focal point for community activity, under the new ordinance.

When the ordinance was discussed last year, council members and members of the city planning commission said the zone was a response to the continued acquisition of land by St. John Hospital.

As the hospital acquired land in the area, it came off the tax rolls, commissioner Peter Gilezan said, and endangered the city's tax base.

The purpose of the city center will be to provide for the development of a building or a complex of buildings that promote commercial, office or residential uses. The intent, according to the ordinance text, is to "create a strong community focal point and to promote public welfare by enhancing the city's tax base."

Limits on height, area and bulk will keep high-rises in the area under 100 feet, or 10 to 12 stories.

IN ADDITION, no structure will be allowed to cast a shadow on any standing one-family dwelling for more than two hours on Dec. 21, the winter solstice. Parking will be based on gross floor area, or the number of square feet contained in such buildings, with 15 spaces required for every 50,000 square feet. Two of these required places must be within an enclosed garage or parking structure.

The city center district raised protests from residents in the area when first discussed last year. Homeowners questioned the wisdom and intent of such a district.

The restricted office district will permit the development of banks and professional offices which should provide local employment near residential areas, and make for "clean, modern office buildings in landscaped settings, which provide appropriate districts for uses that do not generate large volumes of traffic."

The revised city zoning map does not have such areas mapped yet, Rogers said, but they will be discussed some time in the future.

Vehicular parking districts are planned along Mack Avenue, Rogers said, and will allow the city to zone areas for off-street parking lots. Parking zones are also "designed to protect adjacent residential areas by providing landscape setbacks, fences and well-designed parking facilities."

The lots are also intended, according to the text of the ordinance, to act as transitional areas between commercial and residential neighborhoods, permitting private operators as well as city agencies to provide off-street parking lots.

High density multiple dwellings are also proposed in the ordinance, but don't appear on the zoning map. Buildings could be no more than two stories tall, and occupy no more than 30 percent of the total lot area. Three to 12 permanent residences could be included in each building, with one and a half parking spaces provided either on site or in adjacent areas for each resident.

Planned multiple dwelling zones have been placed on Vernier near Mack and along Old Eight Mile Road near the northern limits of the city, according to the revised zoning map.

The dwellings would be one or more buildings, each designed to provide three family units in it, and could also include structures necessary for the operation and maintenance of the building.

Planned multiple family dwellings have no height requirement but could fill no more than 40 percent of the total lot area. Two off-street parking spaces are required for each one-bedroom apartment, and one for each additional bedroom. Two are required.

These dwellings would be located near major thoroughfares for good accessibility and be designed to complement adjacent single family residential areas. The City Council would be required to authorize and approve any building permit for such a dwelling after a financial prospectus and a surety bond are put up by the developer.

The city council would have the right to change or amend any section of the new ordinance, and would require a 75 percent vote to override protests by residents or owners in affected areas.

What can you give a man who has everything? Apparently, a lot of bad ties. Elegantly draped with the best of the worst, Tony Morreale, tailor extraordinaire at Picard-Norton displays some of the front runners in the store's worst tie contest. You look sharp, Tony, really sharp!

Meet the ties that blind

By Tom Greenwood

There's a stunning new collection of ties on display now at Picard-Norton Clothiers on the Hill. That's "stun" as in stopping the unwary dead-in-their-tracks. As in frightening large dogs and small children.

It could possibly be the largest collection of the most horrible ties in the world.

As part of its March Madness Sale, Picard-Norton is accepting old ties for new in a $3 per tie credit exchange. Basically, the plan calls for accepting old ties at $3 apiece, to be applied toward new ties or other merchandise.

The response has been terrific. It's as if the Herb Tarlick School of Fashion suddenly came to its senses.

"I'd say we've accepted at least 10 to 12 dozen old ties for trade in," said Shep Norton, co-owner of the shop. "The response has been fabulous. Last Saturday we laughed from the time we opened 'til we closed. It was crazy in here."

Norton got the idea because business was bad. "I was sitting around one night trying to figure out how to get people to come through that front door and have fun doing it. The tie exchange seemed like a natural."

In fact, the response has been so good that Picard-Norton will be judging the worst of the ties for an all time winner (loser?) on Monday, April 5. The proud owner of the most radioactive tie will receive two free ties for their bravery.

Contest judges will be Norton, his partner, Ed Picard, Roger and Pam Stanton, of the Football News, and Lane Donovan, a salesman at the shop.

Now at least a dozen of the front runners are on display on the front door of the shop with name tags discreetly stapled to each cravat. ("I promised I'd try to protect their identities," said Norton, with an understanding smile.)

The tie covered door has become a monument to American bad taste on the Hill. It's almost enough to frighten away all but the heartiest shoppers. If the display stays around until July, Picard-Norton should have no problem with fish flies attacking the building.

"I like to think that we've made a lot of wives, bosses and co-workers very happy," said Norton. "I had one man bring in 23 ties. One wasn't quite as objectionable as the rest, so I talked him into taking it back. Another gentleman brought in three ties and applied the $9 credit toward a new blouse for his wife, which I thought was very nice of him."

What makes a really bad tie? "I used to think it was the age, wear and tear and width of the tie," said Norton. "But you must also consider the pattern of the material. Some of these really go beyond anything I've seen before—the sort of thing you'd see at a convention of used cars salesmen."

What will happen to all the discarded heart-stoppers? Suggestions have included filling in the potholes of Lakeshore, giving them to farms for scarecrows, or burying them in salt mines with other radioactive wastes. Some do appear to have a half life equal to that of plutonium.

"Actually, I think we'll donate them to people who make quilts, or to some other worthy charity," said Norton. "We should have quite a few since the sale lasts 'til the end of March."

The most interesting thing about this is that most of these are designer ties. They actually made them this way on purpose."

Cities join suburban water rate fight

Two local city councils voted this month to spend 2 cents per capita to join the Suburban Association of Detroit Water Customers' appeal of recent rate hikes approved by the Detroit Metropolitan Water Board.

Action was taken by councils in the Park and the Woods to join the suit pending in the Michigan Court of Appeals. More than 70 other metropolitan area communities are members of the Association. Its leader is Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara, the only formally announced candidate for the new Wayne County Executive position that will be filled in the November election.

The communities are appealing water rate increases back to 1976, when the charge to suburbs was raised by about 39 percent. The Association alleges the increase in water rates appears to have no "reasonable relationship to costs incurred for supplying water" and calls the new rates "unjust and inequitable."

Since 1976, water rates have been increased twice again. In December 1980, charges jumped more than 50 percent to the three Grosse Pointe communities that buy water from Detroit — the Park, Woods and Shores. Late last month, notices of another rate change were mailed to cities. The Woods rate was decreased by a small amount, while rates for the Shores and Park jumped by about 9 percent and 24 percent respectively. The new rates per 1,000 cubic feet are $3 for the Woods, $4.69 for the Shores and $4.01 for the Park.

Local communities have not yet determined how they will pass those rate hikes on to customers, who receive bills for combined sewerage and water usage. The new rates will go into effect July 1.

Water rates are based on the estimated amount of water bought by the city, and the cost of pumping it to the community, according to a spokesman for the Detroit water department.

The Park council agreed to spend an initial $266 on the water rate appeal at its March 22 meeting. The Woods voted earlier this month to allocate $376 to the effort.

Hill home for Joy Bells?

By Tom Greenwood

The re-location of an old Grosse Pointe attraction to the Hill area is one of a number of projects being considered by the Farms in a request for Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funds from HUD.

If its plans are approved, the Farms hopes to re-locate the Joy Bells (currently situated on city property at the corner of Grosse Pointe Boulevard and Moross Road) to the rear of a backstop on South High School's athletic field near the foot of McMillan Road.

The bells, donated to the Farms by the Joy family, have been at their present location for at least 25 years.

The re-location of the bells is one of seven projects proposed by the Farms to HUD in an application for $99,000 in federal monies for fiscal year 1982-83.

According to Farms City Clerk Richard Solak the projects have been submitted for initial approval to Wayne county and then for final approval by HUD sometime this July.

Solak said the estimated cost of moving the bells is $40,000 to $46,000, of which $30,000 would be contributed by HUD.

"We hope to make up the rest of the moving costs from contributions, none of which would be from city funds," said Solak. "We haven't set any deadlines for moving the bells. If and when they're moved, we'll arrange for the bells to be visible to the public but still protected from vandals in an attractive enclosure."

Solak said the bells would serve as an attraction to the Hill, making an aesthetically pleasing addition to the area.

Pat Reynolds, President of the Hill Merchants Association, said discussions about moving the bells have been in the works for at least six years.

"The Joy Bells have been a historic focal point here in the city for years," she said. "It would be beautiful to hear them here on the Hill."

The re-location of the bells was one of seven projects earmarked for fed-

Farms seeking federal funds

eral funds, and approved by the Farms Council Monday, March 15.

Other projects include $8,500 for a business market feasibility study to determine what types of business the Hill needs to attract customers. According to Reynolds, the study would benefit the entire area since it would determine the type of business/clientele mixture needed to keep the Hill viable as a business district.

Seven thousand dollars would be set aside for sidewalk improvements on Kercheval Avenue. Broken sidewalks would be repaired or replaced, plus iron grates would be purchased to accompany the new trees planted on the street last year.

The minor home repair program run by Seniors Onward for Change (SOC) would be continued, funded on an annual basis at $8,500. According to SOC, the funds are needed to help qualifying senior citizens make minor home repairs such as: repair of leaky faucets or toilets; repair and replacement of door locks; caulking of doors and windows; installation of light fixtures and repair or replacement of concrete or brick steps.

The HUD funds would also contain $24,000 for the continuation of interest-free housing rehabilitation loans or grants to Farms residents with low or moderate incomes within designated "target areas" in the city. The money is to be used by qualified recipients to bring homes up to code.

Another $14,000 is earmarked for street improvements on Muir and Mapleton Roads, with an additional $7,000 set aside for administrative costs.

Solak said if everything goes right, the Farms should receive confirmation or denial from HUD by mid-July.

Woods targets federal money to keep market

The Woods City Council last week approved 5 to 1 a three-year Community Development Block Grant program application which includes a land use study aimed at keeping Farmer Jack's Market on Mack in the city by suggesting methods for its expansion.

Gerald McNamara, administrative aide, said the supermarket has considered expansion at its present facility and has also considered moving to a site near Nine Mile and Mack in St. Clair Shores.

He told the council the re-evaluation of land use in the area between Lochmoor Boulevard and Parcels School would make it easier to allow the store to expand and offer a keener insight into the use of the property there.

Councilman Robert Novitke said he didn't like the use of government funds for the expansion plans for a private business.

"IT APPEARS to me we're subsidizing a private business by drawing up plans for its expansion," he said. "It just bothers me that that's what we're doing with the funds to a large extent."

Councilman John Sabol, who cast the lone dissenting vote, said he couldn't vote for the program application because "I don't feel the city should get involved with CDBG money or any kind of money."

Councilman Jean Rice disagreed, saying "If we ever want new concepts to come into our city, if we don't want it to die, then we're going to have to do things like this."

Peace Corps needed more than ever

By Joanne Gouleche

President Reagan's call for volunteerism was heard clearly in Grosse Pointe last week when Peace Corps Director Loree Miller Ruppe told a group of students the world needs the federal agency now more than ever in its 20-year history.

"Is peace a world without war or is it the absence of conditions that bring on war, such as poverty?" Mrs. Ruppe asked. "If we want peace in the world, we are going to have to learn more about it. There will never be peace until we go out and help these underdeveloped countries."

In an auditorium filled with students and teachers at University Liggett School, Mrs. Ruppe said the Peace Corps program has been dimmed in the minds of Americans and noted for the last several years little or nothing has been said about the progress of the agency.

"We need to update Americans on the successes of the Peace Corps program," Mrs. Ruppe said.

A reminder of the program to all Americans, Mrs. Ruppe added, may also spur American businesses to donate money, time and talent to the program.

Mrs. Ruppe, wife of GOP candidate for the U.S. Senate, Philip Ruppe, was named Peace Corps director last February by President Reagan. She and her husband reside in Potomac, Md.

The Peace Corps director co-chaired the Michigan Reagan/Bush State Committee and has long been active as a volunteer organizer and civic leader. Mrs. Ruppe assisted in her husband's successful 1966 bid to Congress. He represented Michigan's 11th district for six terms.

Mr. Ruppe made an appearance in Grosse Pointe last week when he spoke before the 14th District Republican Committee at the War Memorial.

Mrs. Ruppe said there are now some 5,000 Americans in about 80 countries around the world involved in the Peace Corps program — a far cry from the 15,000 volunteers in the 1960s when the program was launched under the Kennedy administration.

Yet the overseas call for American skills and know-how, Mrs. Ruppe said, is still very strong. "These skills have a tremendous impact and make such a difference in their lives."

She encouraged Liggett students to learn foreign languages and to think about the Peace Corps as a form of service to their country.

Mrs. Ruppe said the Peace Corps program has received "very strong support" from the Reagan administration and noted its $105 million budget has been left untouched by recent cuts.

The director added, however, the program's budget has remained the same for the last 10 years in spite of inflation and the Peace Corps is now appealing to the American businessman for aid.

"We are going to the business sector and saying 'Why not help us recruit volunteers?'"

Peace Corp director speaks

Response to the call has been minimal. Mrs. Ruppe said, adding the Peace Corps is currently in touch with the U.S. Chamber of Commerce to help out in its effort.

"It's important that American businesses know about the Peace Corps," Mrs. Ruppe said. "Our return volunteers have a lot to offer these businesses, too."

Career options are discussed

Grosse Pointe North High School and the Parents Club will present "Focus on Careers" Wednesday, March 31, from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the school.

The program is designed to help students and adults with career options. Representatives from Michigan schools and businesses will present information on careers, required training, job opportunities and career projections. There will also be discussion on career opportunities for graduates of traditional comprehensive four year universities as well as explanation of two year programs and specialized schools.

The program is open to the community.

Husbands and wives react differently to the threat of marriage break-ups. Unhappy husbands withdraw, says a marriage counselor. They tend to stop talking and go their own way. Unhappy wives, he says, are more inclined to become exceptionally active. They're even apt to get aggressive.

Woods seeks federal funding

Also involved in the program is a study of the west side commercial strip on Mack from Cook Road south to Bournemouth. McNamara said the idea was to look at alternative land uses in that area with the goal of increasing the tax base.

Both the Farmer Jack and the west side strip studies will provide information to the council, so it would be able to make informed decisions about future projects in those areas, McNamara said.

A study will be made to qualify the east side of Mack from Vernier north to the city limits for the CDBG program by showing it is the same as the west side neighborhood that already qualifies, McNamara said.

This will allow CDBG money to be used in the east side neighborhoods for capital improvements, street repair and sewer work, he said.

OTHER PROJECTS in 1982 include the installation of a handicap ramp at the municipal building at a cost of $2,400. $7,700 for minor home repair through Seniors Onward for Change, facade zone improvements in the north Mack commercial strip for $27,700 and $44,700 for the replacement of a sewer line along East Eight Mile Road.

The program is based on a three-year yearly allocation of $99,000. Last month, the CDBG advisory council rejected a bid by the Woods to use the demography and population of Grosse Pointe Shores in its application for CDBG funds. The Shores does not participate in the CDBG programs.

It had been approved, the Woods would have received $120,000 as its yearly CDBG grant.

The rationale for rejection of the bid, according to Terry Jarvis of the Wayne County Office of Intergovernmental Affairs, was that unused funds should be returned to the advisory council which could then reallocate them for the benefit of the entire program, rather than having the funds used by a single community.

The 1983 and 1984 project budgets will be reviewed to match the $99,000 available to the city, McNamara said. Applications for funds and projects must be made to the county by April 1.

Approval of the projects is expected by early July, McNamara said. The city will execute the program that has been approved, and present the CDBG advisory council with the vouchers for reimbursement, he said. No money is paid in advance of work.

The CDBG program is funded and administered by the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Weapons taken from Woods during B&E

A Grosse Pointe Woods home was robbed Friday, March 19, of silver collections and assorted handguns and rifles, according to police.

Woods police were called to the Severn Road home about 10 p.m. When they arrived, the owner showed them a window at the back of the home leading into a family room that had been smashed to gain entry.

Police said most of the glass was outside the home. Reports indicate the robbers spent little time on the first floor of the home, and spent most of the time searching the upper floor.

Taken from the master bedroom were a penny collection, a silver coin and silver certificate collection, and an undetermined amount of jewelry.

Taken from a second floor study were a Smith & Wesson .357 Magnum handgun, reportedly a City of Detroit Commemorative piece, a 12-gauge double-barrel shotgun, a Browning 22-caliber semi-automatic rifle, a Remington .308-caliber bolt-action rifle with scope, and a Remington .30-06 semi-automatic rifle.

The owner told police the home was completely dark when he left about 7 a.m. that morning. Police put the time of the robbery sometime between 7 a.m. and 10 p.m.

Woman stabbed by intruder

An elderly Grosse Pointe Park woman was stabbed in the arm Saturday, March 13, while she and her roommate tried to fend off armed thieves trying to enter their Lakepointe Road home.

The woman was treated at Bon Secours Hospital for the wound and is in good condition.

Police said the woman answered the doorbell at about 9 Saturday morning and was confronted by a 14- or 15-year old man who mumbled something about shoveling her snow. Another man, described as between 26 and 35 years old, jumped out of a hiding place on the porch with a long knife in his hand and tried to force his way into the home. The woman and her roommate, also an elderly female, fought off the attackers. During the fight the woman was stabbed on her left arm. When the women began to scream, the two men fled, according to police.

The assailants did not get inside the house and there were no losses reported.

10 percent are jobless

Grosse Pointe's unemployment rate rose to 10.07 percent in January, according to figures released last week by the Michigan Employment Security Commission. The rate varied from a high of 11.8 percent in the Park to the City's 6.9 percent. Unemployment in the Woods was pegged at 10.3 percent and in the Farms at 8.7 percent, according to MESC.

The national unemployment figure for January was 8.5 percent. Sixteen percent of Michigan's workforce was jobless during the same period.

In all, just under 2,000 persons were out of work in the Pointe. The total workforce for the four cities is 19,850 persons. Statistics are not kept for Grosse Pointe Shores.

December unemployment in the Pointe was 6.9 percent in the City, 8.3 percent in the Farms, 10.6 percent in the Park and 9.5 percent in the Woods.

Correction

Last week's edition incorrectly reported the phone number for the War Memorial box office. The correct number is 881-4004 to make reservations for the Grosse Pointe Theater's courtroom drama "Nuts" which opened yesterday, March 24 and runs through Saturday, April 3, except Monday and Tuesday, March 29 and 30.

Competitors qualified by passing a 50-word test before going on to the finals. Expressions tell the rest of the story as students began dropping out along the way. The kids all agreed the worst words heard all afternoon were "I'm sorry, that's incorrect." First place went to fifth grader Michele Strey (the first fifth grader to ever win the contest). Second and third went to sixth graders Daniel Raebid and Rita Palazzolo. Incidentally, the word that won it all for Michele was "religiously."

Cottage ready for Fun/Run Walk

The Cottage Hospital Auxiliary will present its second annual five kilometer fun run/walk on the theme "We're Up for Health" as a benefit for Cottage Hospital on Sunday, May 2 starting at 1 p.m. The race is sponsored by the Seven Up-Canada Dry Bottling Company of Detroit.

The race will begin at 1 p.m. on Grosse Pointe Boulevard near Fisher Road in the Farms. Race headquarters is the Grosse Pointe South High School gym, 11 Grosse Pointe Boulevard. The entry fee is $6. Entries are available at the information window of Cottage Hospital, 159 Kercheval Avenue, and at public libraries and at merchants in the Pointe area.

The fun run/walk is open to everyone. Families are urged to participate. Three awards will be given in each of 12 age categories for both men and women runners. Awards will be given for the top three men and women walkers and for the first five pedestrian walkers.

Each participant will receive a race T-shirt, a certificate of participation, a race number, and a ticket for food and entertainment planned for after the run in the gym. Because the run is a benefit for Cottage Hospital, participants are asked to seek pledges for their run or walk. Local businesses and organizations are urged to send a team to compete in the fun run. Last year's race attracted 450 entrants.

The "Sock Hop" planned for after the race will feature hot food, entertainment, and dancing to the music of four local groups who will compete for an event trophy. Family members of runners, spectators or people who wish just to participate in the party after the run can buy individual tickets for $3 or family tickets for up to four members at $10 at the box office of the South High gym. Their ticket entitles them to lunch and entertainment.

Participants in the fun run/walk may pick up their race number and packet at race headquarters only on the day of the event from 10 a.m. to 12 noon. There will be no entries accepted after 11 a.m. race day. T-shirts are available on the race day only; there is no guarantee of shirts for late registration.

Race director is Jeanne Bocci. Co-chairmen of the event are Josette Hosking, (Mrs. James J.), president of the Cottage Hospital Auxiliary; Nancy Y. Davidson, director of development; and Madge P. Lawson, public relations director, both of Cottage Hospital.

Foundation plans fund-raiser play

The Foundation for Exceptional Children is selling tickets for the April 8 performance of "Jesus Christ Superstar." The play will be presented by the Macomb Council for the Performing Arts at the Macomb Theater in downtown Mount Clemens at 8 p.m.

Tickets can be reserved by calling the Foundation at 885-8660 from 9 to 2 p.m. before April 1. Tickets are $7 each.

All proceeds from this fund raiser will be used to benefit the handicapped children attending the Foundation's weekday program in Grosse Pointe Memorial Church.

War Memorial Center spring tours include Netherlands, Spain, U.S.

A smorgasbord of delightful and informative travel has been planned for Grosse Pointers by the War Memorial.

Just once every 10 years a world exposition of flowers occurs and 1982 marks the decade, and the Netherlands (where in May the fields of gardens and tulips are in bloom) is the host.

All this beauty War Memorial travelers will see on May 9 to 15 for a little over $1,000, including round-trip air-fare from Detroit, first-class hotel, some meals and guided tours all around the low lands.

An immediate $175 deposit is necessary.

In America, the center will visit the homes of New Orleans and Louisiana plantations, the city and harbor and enjoy the Jazz Festival with the world's best artists. Travelers will stay at the Chateau Le Moyne right in the heart of the Vieux Carre. Round-trip air on Delta is included all for $500.

On June 3 the center goes to Spain's Costa del Sol with the opportunity to visit Granada, Seville and North Africa. The base price including non-stop air from Detroit is $699, staying at first-class hotels with dinner option for the week at $45. Places are going fast. An immediate $175 deposit is required.

A three-week budget tour of Europe leaves June 20 and is already wait listed for adults but has openings for students. It includes round-trip air via Pan Am, lodging, meals, guides and admissions and land transportation beginning in London and continuing to Paris, Lucerne, Florence, Rome, Venice, Salzburg, Vienna via a Danube cruise, Munich and the Romantic Road via Rothenberg to Frankfurt. The cost is $1,500. $300 deposit is required.

Looking forward to summer there is the popular Cobbe To Britain tour covering England, Scotland, Wales and Cornwall in a deluxe motorcade staying at the best hotels and historic inns and castles. Tickets to the famous Tattoo and music festival at Edinburgh are included as well as the Shakespearean performance at Stratford-upon-Avon.

Full breakfast and dinner are included as well as stops at castles, manor houses and gardens. Of course, it's fully guided and escorted. Spaces are limited for the two weeks beginning Aug. 10. The cost is below $2,400. A $250 deposit is required.

Don't forget the popular weekends to the Shakespearean Festival, Stratford, Ontario, July 9 and 10 and the journey to the Shaw Festival at Niagara-on-the-Lake, Canada, Aug. 6 to 8. They are filling fast and have always been sold out. But transportation, some meals, lodging as well as theater seats are included at $164 for Stratford, and $172 for Shaw. A $25 non-refundable deposit is required.

Hearing set on senior programs

The Detroit Area Agency on Aging has scheduled public hearings on its plan for providing future services to the elderly in the Detroit, Grosse Pointe, Highland Park and Hamtramck area.

The hearing will take place at the Michigan State Fairgrounds on Tuesday, April 6. A morning hearing is primarily for discussion by the general public.

The Detroit Area Agency on Aging, using a combination of federal, state and local monies, plans and contracts for services to senior citizens in Detroit, Hamtramck, Highland Park and Grosse Pointe under the Federal Older Americans Act.

Past services it has funded include the senior nutrition program at Brownell Middle School as well as senior day care, in-home services and legal aid for the elderly.

The general public may attend. For information call the agency at 961-6680.

Walking keeps Berthe out of mischief

By Joanne Gouleche

It's a good two mile walk from Berthe Huwiler's Mapleton Road home to the Mack Avenue stores in Grosse Pointe. But Berthe has good strong legs and is a fast walker.

So, once or twice a week she knocks on her neighbors' doors, picks up grocery lists and tucks uncashed checks into her purse. She returns in short order with bagfuls of food and monthly social security payments for the shut-ins in her neighborhood.

"Older people nowadays feel sorry for themselves I don't," she says. "It's the best thing for me to walk. There are ladies around here who can't walk, so I do their shopping for them."

"It's nothing to brag about. If I can do something for someone at my age, I will do it," Berthe announces matter-of-factly.

Berthe, at 80, lovingly can and does.

The marigolds and dahlias will soon be in bloom in front of Berthe's gray frame house.

"I'll be so happy when spring finally comes. I can't wait to plant my seeds and cut the grass." She pauses and then laughs. "You know, it keeps me out of mischief."

Berthe still speaks with a French accent. "Oh, it's very important that you spell my name with an 'e.' I come from the French part of Switzerland, you know."

Berthe set foot on U.S. soil when she was 22 years old. Soon after she met and married husband John. Together they collected memories for 48 years. He groomed the grounds for a Beverly Road couple. She was a private nurse for the Butlers, whose son grew up and became the mayor of Grosse Pointe Farms.

Berthe is proud of that.

The black upright piano in the living room carries a proud display of Berthe's two children and five grandchildren. "Oh, look. Here's Lily. She's a nurse."

There are several greeting cards scotch-taped to the walls. "I am one of those grandmothers who doesn't put cards in a drawer where you can't see them."

Resting on the covered keyboard is a framed letter from President Reagan congratulating Berthe on her 80th birthday.

She became a citizen in 1950. "Oh, honey, nothing made me feel better than when I became an American citizen."

A Grosse Pointe resident for 60 years, Berthe says she's just amazed with today's youth. "They get everything they want, it seems." But she recounts a story of one Halloween when the local kids said they got together and decided not to soap Mrs. Huwiler's windows.

"They said I was too good to them."

Sitting comfortably in a dolly-coiffured chair, Berthe says it really isn't any big deal that she watches out for other people.

"You have to be friendly with people. Some people are always sour pussies. I can't be like that."

For the last 50 years Berthe has been collecting money when one of Mapleton's residents passes on. She then walks about a half mile from her house to Grosse Pointe Florist on Kerby Road and buys flowers to send to the local funeral home.

She leans forward in her chair when asked about her secret for a long life.

"Oh no, no. I don't smoke or drink. You want to know my secret? I'll tell you. God is watching over me. Some people don't like to hear about that sort of thing. But that's the way it is with me."

Eight years ago Berthe fell on some ice and broke her knee. It was then she made her pact with God.

"I said to God 'if you give me back my knee I will help other people.' People say 'tell us at your age how you can walk up to Mack Avenue or to the Village.' I say the Lord is watching over me. I am a big believer in God."

Berthe says she doesn't mind walking one bit. "I like to walk and see the trees and flowers."

She doesn't drive but almost learned how to on Windmill Pointe Drive several years ago.

Husband John made Berthe get behind the wheel. "Then he said 'don't put so much gas on the pedal.' I said 'open the door. You drive.'" Berthe says the local police told her never to let her husband show her how to drive. She stood by their word.

The inventor of the first electric Christmas lights in 1908 was a telephone company employee in England by the name of Ralph Morris. After putting out a tree fire caused by a tipped candle, he bought a batch of tiny bulbs used on telephone switchboards and strung them together. The idea spread.

"If I can do something for someone, I will do it," Berthe says.

District court bill signed by Governor

Gov. Milliken signed Grosse Pointe's district court legislation last week, but the new law will not go into effect unless five local city councils agree to endorse it by May 11.

So far, only the Woods council has approved a resolution supporting the new court.

To help them reach a decision, five councils last month commissioned a $7,000 study of the new court by the accounting firm Coopers and Lybrand. The report is due next week. David Vincent, who is directing the study for the firm, said it is proceeding on schedule with full cooperation from the five cities.

The district court legislation, sponsored by Sen. John Kelly, will abolish the five local municipal courts and replace them with a full-time court of record presided over by one judge. A second judge could be added at a later date if necessary, under Kelly's bill. The district court would have expanded jurisdiction in civil cases.

Opponents of the change to district court argue the system will increase cities' costs. The Coopers and Lybrand study is expected to address that question. In addition the study will look at possible court locations, policies, financing and accessory uses including a joint holding facility, central dispatch and fire arms training center for the five cities.

If the cities approve the new court, elections for a judge would be held this November and the court would begin operation in January, 1983.

Lakeshore home hit by robbers

A Grosse Pointe Shores home was broken into early Sunday morning, March 14. Police believe the robber escaped with a set of silverware and assorted jewelry.

The owner of the Lakeshore home called police Tuesday, March 16 and said a neighbor had called to tell him the front door was open.

Police found the south side kitchen door of the home kicked in. Reports say only the dining room, master bedroom and an upstairs bedroom showed signs of being searched. Missing were a set of flat silverware, assorted jewelry and a patterned pillow case, according to reports.

Police placed the time of the robbery early Sunday morning. A canvass of neighbors turned up a woman who said someone rang her doorbell about 12:30 a.m. When she looked out her window, she could see no one in the area.

Police are waiting for a full inventory of losses from the owner.

Auto Club backs child restraint use
 A statewide program to help motorists comply with Michigan's new child restraint law was announced last week by the Automobile Club of Michigan, which is donating 600 child restraint seats to community loaner programs.
 "We are appealing to parents to protect children under age four from auto accidents as required by law beginning April 1," Auto Club Grosse Pointe Manager Jack Piana said. "We are pleased to be joined in this effort by State Sen. George Hart, who sponsored the child passenger safety legislation, and the Michigan State Police."
 Traffic safety studies the new law could reduce deaths 90 percent and injuries 80 percent for youngsters involved in auto accidents. Last year, 26 children died and 3,360 were injured while traveling in automobiles, according to a press release from the Auto Club.

The 1.29 million member Automobile Club will donate child restraints this year to the State Police, hospitals and community service groups which will then loan them to the public. Some 200 seats will go to the State Police for its loan program. Troopers will ticket violators and loan the driver a restraint seat. Upon return of the seat and proof of purchase on the approved device, the $10 ticket will be voided.

Michigan's new law requires all infant passengers under 1 year to be restrained. Youngsters more than 1 but under 4 years old must be in an approved child restraint while in the front seat.

Back seat passengers between ages of 1 to 4 must use either a child restraint or a seat belt. The law allows some exceptions, including children being nursed. The Secretary of State may exempt children because of physical size or medical problems.

Brochures explaining the law and required child restraints are available from Secretary of State offices and State Police posts throughout the state. A list of federally approved child restraints is available at those locations and at the 56 Auto Club offices statewide.

Musica Series presents trio

The Michigan Trio will present the fourth concert of the Musica Series at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, 16 Lakeshore Road, Sunday, March 28 at 8 p.m. The Trio consists of Detroit Symphony members Linda Snedden Smith, violin, David Levine, cello, and Muriel Kilby, piano. Guest artist, Philip Porbe, viola, will join the Trio for the Quartet in G minor (K. 478) by Mozart. The Trio will also perform the Trio in A minor (opus 50) by Tchaikovsky.

After the concert a catered reception will be held in the lounge for an opportunity to meet the artists. Tickets for the concert are $4 for adults, $1 for students, $2 for senior citizens. For information call the church office, 882-3330.

'Happiness is' at PWP meeting

The Grosse Pointe Chapter of Parents Without Partners will meet Friday, March 26, at 7:30 p.m. to hear James Rutkowski, counseling department chairman at Oakland Community College, discuss "Happiness is..."

Township, Shores to air budgets

Residents of Lake Township, Grosse Pointe Township and the village of Grosse Pointe Shores will have a chance to see where their tax money goes when annual elector meetings and budget hearings are held during the next two weeks.

The 1982-83 fiscal year budget for the village will be discussed at the regular village trustee meeting to be held Tuesday, March 30 at 8:30 a.m. in the village offices.

The proposed 1982-83 budget is running $62,097 in the red. Budget surpluses from the 1980-81 and 1981-82 fiscal years, however, will leave the village with an overall projected surplus of $206,738 at the end of fiscal 1983.

The proposed 1982-83 budget projects $219 million in revenues, while anticipating $225 million in expenditures.

The budgets for Lake and Grosse Pointe Townships will be presented at public hearings and annual meetings of electors starting at 1 p.m. on Saturday, April 3.

The budget for Grosse Pointe Township is projected to balance at $161,000 for fiscal 1982-83. The townships are not responsible for public works and public safety expenses, Village Manager Thomas Jefferies said. Townships are responsible for elections, assessments, clerks, commissions and boards and treasurer expenses, he added.

The budget for Lake Township is only a few thousand dollars Jefferies said.

For Senior Citizens

By Marian Trainor
Sociologists explain, psychologists probe and pollsters predict, but often life situations can be more clearly understood in a story.

Biblical lessons were taught by parables, folk tales were told to explain phenomena of nature and fables highlighted human foibles.

So it can be with today's novels. And it doesn't necessarily have to be weighty. Sometimes a story simply told can effectively bring into focus a sociological problem.

Such a novel, a novelette really because of its brevity, is "A Figure of Speech" by Norma Fox Maser, that tells the story of Jenny and her Grandpa.

Jenny feels she is an unwanted child. Grandpa is certain he is an unwanted member of his son's family. On one level, the story is a touching tale of a child's love for her grandfather. On another, it is an impressive story of what can happen to an older person who gives up his independence before it is necessary.

After his wife's death, Grandpa decided to return to the farm his grandfather left to him. It was a place that held many happy memories. For him the farm was a golden place of light and shining space.

At the time Grandpa was planning to make this move, his granddaughter Jenny was born. Because there were three other children to care for, Jenny's mother thought it would be a good idea for Grandpa to come live with the family because he could help out with Jenny. Besides, she said, "He was too old to live alone."

Grandpa didn't agree. But to be obliging he agreed to move in and help with the new baby. He didn't realize he was taking the first step toward giving up his personal life and his identity as a person. He was now "grandpa" and would gradually be molded into that concept.

He was given an apartment in the basement of the home. That suited him fine. He had his meals with the family and could retire to his own privacy.

FOR A WHILE it looked like the arrangement would work out. Grandpa took the baby for long rides in her carriage and later, when she was older, for long walks. A fine relationship developed between the two and as the years went on, a sort of mutual bond. As Jenny grew older, she realized that neither of them was truly wanted. Jenny tells her friend, Rhoda, "I was a birth control baby. The birth control my mother and father used didn't work out and the result was me. I'm the family accident."

But Jenny has a fighting spirit. While she is disturbed by her place in the family lineup, she doesn't let it defeat her. She is a survivor. Besides she has Grandpa.

For Grandpa it's a different story. He is old but as the family begins to resent his presence, he is made to feel older by the restrictions placed upon him. He loves to walk but after a retarded boy walks into a car and is killed, the family tells him perhaps it would be better if he didn't go out. Grandpa resists and his son reminds him of his age. "Nobody expects you to be 100 percent at your age," he tells him. "We've got to watch out for you."

When he tips over a glass at the dinner table, his daughter-in-law excuses it with, "children do it all the time." Grandpa resents being compared to a retarded person and to young children but he accepts the limits placed on him.

The next thing to go is his pipe "because smoking is bad for you." His dinner conversation is limited because his reminiscences become repetitious. Jenny pleads his case. "You talk to Grandpa like he's dumb or a kid," she says. "You make him feel awful. You don't want Grandpa to talk, you don't want him to do anything. You and Dad both, you act like you don't want Grandpa to even live."

But Grandpa still has his refuge in the basement. He likes to reread old newspapers because they bring the world to him since he can't go out into it. "The world is still here," he says, "and so am I."

Another downward step is taken when his eldest grandson marries and brings his bride home to live. Subtly they contrive to get Grandpa's apartment and he is moved into a lower bunk in another grandson's room. Deprived of his apartment, his possessions and his dignity, he begins to deteriorate.

He ponders how he came to this position. "He had thought of himself as a strong, intelligent and clever man. He had imagined that his son felt reassured with him living in the house. His son could leave his family every morning knowing they were safe because he was there. He had been living in a fool's paradise."

With Jenny to cheer him, he accepts even this change until he discovers the family is planning to place him in a nursing home. He is distraught.

"WHY HAD he listened to them?" he asks himself. "Why had he taken those first steps—giving up first one thing and then another. Overnight he had become sick and old. He had made their prophecies come true. The weakness that had made his legs tremble and his voice quiver had come from defeat and fear, from believing that he was as helpless and old as they said. A man didn't have to be that old."

His family, perhaps unconsciously, cast him into their conception of old age just as they consciously avoided the proper references to places they didn't want to think about. "Cover-up words," Grandpa called them. "Pretty words for ugly things like a grave being called a 'resting place'."

Grandpa, now sure he is neither needed nor wanted, attempts to salvage his dignity and a chain of events is set in motion that leads to tragedy. Grandpa's story is a touching realistic one that shows a situation unfortunately common in our times. The older person is tolerated, unwanted and then pushed aside. The problems are presented realistically and the message that a senior citizen is a person and not a "figure of speech" is a meaningful one. This is a somber but immensely readable novel that presents the cardinal rule of self preservation for older people—maintain your independence for as long as you are able.

Another book, "New Family Roles in Family Life" by Wilma Donahue confirms that people need not be old because of years. Her premise points on the need for older people to maintain independence by developing a strong concept of themselves as persons.

She reminds younger people who are in their forties that they have lived only half their years. But what Donahue says is true of older people as well.

Donahue says that how older people spend the years left depends in large measure upon how they see themselves in the many roles open to them as mature people intent on further development. She cites the educational opportunities of Elderhostel as one way to broaden that concept of self.

"Thro'ugh education," Donahue writes, "Older adults can continue to improve their knowledge and skills necessary to meet present day life."

Elderhostel is one of the educational opportunities available for older people, those who never finished high school and the many more who never attended college. Besides learning new skills, they can make new friends and broaden their horizons.

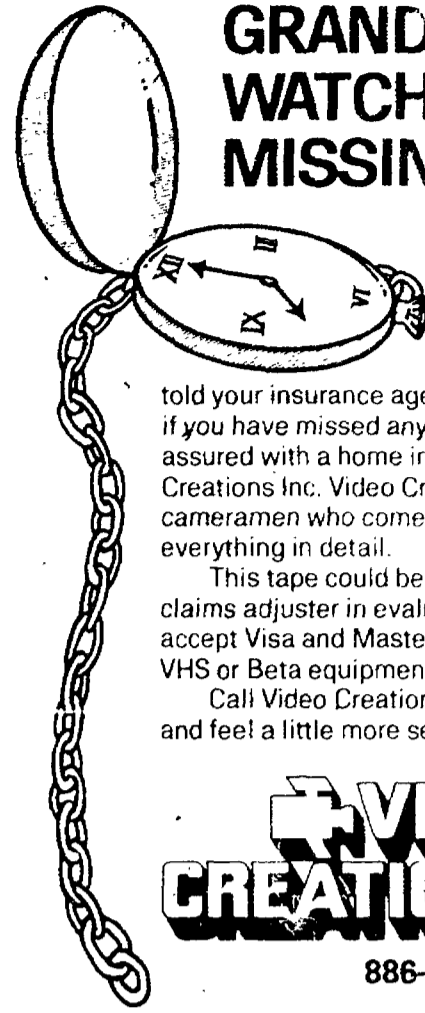

Elderhostel is a week-long on-campus educational program for persons 60 years or older. Participants attend classes, live in dormitories and eat in college dining halls with other students.

It is a network of over 500 colleges, universities, independent schools and other education institutions in 50 states, including Michigan, which offers special low-cost short term residential academic programs. A catalog listing courses and schools where they are offered may be secured by writing to: National Elderhostel, 100 Boylston Street, Suite 200, Boston, Mass., 02113.

Another advocate of senior citizen independence, Maggie Kuhn, founder of the Gray Panthers, had this to say in answer to a question about work

Three join Cottage board

Robert E. Valk, president of the board of trustees of Cottage Hospital of Grosse Pointe, recently announced three new members of the board have been elected and two members have retired to become honorary trustees.

Named to the board were Keith E. Crain, Karla Scherer, (Mrs. Peter R.) Fink, and Richard H. W. Chadwell, Jr. retiring from the board were Gertrude (Mrs. Carl B.) Grawn, and John McNaughton.

Mrs. Grawn, a Cottage trustee since 1941, was board president twice during her tenure, in 1946 and 1954.

McNaughton, a trustee since 1961, was president of the board from 1972 to 1977. He was instrumental in helping the hospital obtain properties across Main Road to meet its need for additional parking. Both trustees were honored recently at a dinner at the Grosse Pointe Club. Mrs. Grawn and McNaughton are residents of the Park.

New board member Crain is vice-chairman of Crain Communications, Inc. and president of the Crain Automotive Group, a subsidiary of the corporation. He also is publisher and editorial director of Automotive News, publisher of Autoweek, publishing director of Crain's Cleveland Business and chairman of Crain Press, a division of Crain Communications, Inc. He is married to the former Mary Kay Stahl. They reside in Grosse Pointe City with their three children.

Mrs. Fink, a housewife, is a member of the Music Hall board, Wayne State University Understudies, Detroit Institute of Arts Women's Committee, the board of trustees of the Cradle Society, Evanston, Ill., and is vice-chairman of the Phillips Academy Parent Fund Committee, for 1981-82, Andover, Mass. Mrs. Fink resides in the Farms. She and her husband have three children.

Richard H. W. Chadwell, Jr., a registered representative, is vice-president and resident manager of Kidder, Peabody & Co., Inc., an investment brokerage firm. He has three sons and resides in the Woods.

Theater organ concert is free

The Motor City Theatre Organ Society will present Steve Stephani at the console of the Wurlitzer 26 Theatre Organ at the Punch and Judy Theatre, 21 Kercheval Avenue, Sunday, April 4, at 1 p.m.

It is another of the regular free mini-concerts given the first Sunday of each month at the Punch and Judy.

Stephani is known in the Detroit area for his many years of entertaining at super clubs and movie houses.

The Motor City Theatre Organ Society is a non-profit corporation of more than 450 area residents. Its purpose is to preserve and restore the theatre pipe organ, in its original setting where possible, and to foster interest in its music.

In the jail at the Police Department of Gallup, N.M., is a 4,800-square-foot drunk tank, most probably the biggest in the nation. It holds as many as 150 men at a time.

The professional football player who had the most knee surgeries was E.J. Holub, the Oklahoma cattleman. During his amateur and professional career, he went under the knee knife 12 times.

Senator will speak Sunday at Unitarian

Grosse Pointe's State Sen. John Kelly (D-Detroit) will talk at the 11 a.m. lay service of Grosse Pointe Unitarian Church this Sunday, March 28. "The State We're In—The Michigan Situation" will be his topic. Members of the church will relate their problems with business, education and social programs in the state.

Interested members of the community are invited to attend the service. The church is located at 17150 Maumee in the City.

Kelly represents the east side of Detroit and the five Pointes. He is vice-chairman of the Municipalities and Elections committee and serves on Judiciary, and Corporations and Economic Development committees as well.

He recently sponsored a bill to lift restrictions on statewide branch banking that is pending in the Senate. The senator also wrote legislation creating a Grosse Pointe District Court which was signed by Gov. Milliken last week and is pending approval of the five Pointe city councils.

In Fulpmes, Austria, a 28-year-old wife found in her husband's wallet some snapshots of her best friend in the nude. She had them enlarged and printed up as posters, then in the night plastered them all over town with the caption: "Beware of This Woman. Lock Up Your Husbands!" The judge gave her five days in jail. She said she didn't care. The nude woman left town.

as a means of maintaining an independent life. "Older workers all too often reflect the attitudes of society and 'buy into' the myths of old age as rest-time and time to step aside. Although the disengagement theory of aging has been rejected as a viable social theory, it has seeped into public policy and public thinking, to the detriment of older Americans and American society."

Education to learn new skills or to broaden one's outlook, work that is not taxing but offers an opportunity to utilize the skills of a lifetime, hobbies, recreational outlets, social contacts through organizations or churches are all means of keeping oneself alert and busy and an insurance against a dependence that hastens premature old age. Sitting in a rocking chair in someone else's home is not recommended.

Center plans art classes

The spring term of art classes at the War Memorial will offer many choices to art students at all levels of ability and a varied choice of techniques and media.

The main floor studio of the art wing will be where Paola Coppini will offer an evening class for those interested in oils and the techniques and study of portraiture on Thursdays beginning March 25 and continuing until April 22. Class meets from 7 to 10 p.m. for a fee of $45 for five three-hour lessons. Students will share the cost of the model.

Coppini paints in the Renaissance style and studied at the Art Academy in Florence and is a protegee of Pietro Anniponi.

Marilyn Derwenskus will begin her 10-week course in the Imaginative Approach to Water Color at noon on Monday, March 29. Mrs. Derwenskus' paintings and instruction reflect her own warmth and insight into the world around her. She has taught at Wayne State University and is currently on the faculty of the Birmingham-Bloomfield Art Association.

Fee for the three-hour, 10-week course is $70 and you may pick up the supply list at the center when registering.

Mary Louise McCarroll will instruct two drawing classes on Wednesdays. The Drawing and Color, class will emphasize color theory basics and technical skills. Students will work at their own level on varied subject matter in conte crayon, pastel, oil and chalk and colored pencils. The classes will begin March 31 through June 9 from 9 until 11:30 a.m. and the fee for the 10 two-hour lessons is $65.

Drawing with the Masters of Oriental Art class will be offered in the afternoon from 12:30 until 3 p.m. on Wednesdays beginning March 31. In this class the student will have lectures and demonstrations of techniques used by the Oriental masters and will draw both at the center and at the Detroit Institute of Arts. The class is open to both beginning and intermediate students and the fee is $65 for 10 lessons.

Miss McCarroll has received many awards for her work and has recently returned from special study at Ragsdale Institute in Chicago.

In the Center's art wing, lower level, the Stained Glass class will begin on April 7 and run through June 2. The sessions will begin at 7 p.m. until 10 p.m. and are taught by Charles Hudson. Hudson is a graduate of New Mexico University and Michigan State University, and studied with Richard Sortomme and glass blower Fred Warren. He was also an advisor in stained glass in Ikemas, Michigan, and Grand Rapids.

Fee for the class is $85 plus about $28 for supplies (less if students have their own glass breaking pliers and glass cutters). Students will learn in addition to the handling and cutting of glass, the basic leading techniques and staining and firing of glass will also be explored.

Soldering irons will be supplied but students should bring safety goggles and gloves to class.

Registration is at the center office Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. or by mail, sending a stamped, self addressed envelope for receipt and supply list.

This Week in Business

Hudson's Coe steps down

General manager of the J. L. Hudson downtown Detroit store, John W. Coe, has resigned, accepting a vice-president position with Champion Home Builders, Inc. in Dryden, Mich. Coe, a Grosse Pointe resident, joined Hudson's in 1950 as an executive trustee and has held executive positions in both the company's merchandising and stores divisions.

NBD appoints two residents

Nancy S. Denomme of Grosse Pointe Woods has been named administrative officer in National Bank of Detroit's Information and Operations Services Division. The bank also announced the appointment of Mary Olson, a Grosse Pointe Farms resident, to loan officer in its International Division. Ms. Denomme joined NBD in 1978 and most recently was manager of the Trust Securities Processing Department. Ms. Olson, a bank employe for two years, was assistant credit officer in the Credit Administration Division.

Appointed credit operations officer

Detroit Bank & Trust has promoted James A. Baubie Jr. of Grosse Pointe Woods to credit operations officer. Baubie joined DBT as a clerk in the securities clearance department in 1966.

Knudson joins Gentrex, Inc.

Former GM employe Gregory H. Knudson has joined the St. Clair Shores-based export-import company Gentrex, Inc. as export manager. Knudson, of Grosse Pointe Farms, held key positions in GM's overseas marketing analysis operations.

Stanich named art director

Ad firm Baker, Abbs, Cunningham & Klepinger has appointed Grosse Pointe resident Bernie Stanich to art director. Stanich was employed by Indiana Design Consortium, Inc., an advertising and design firm where he managed the art department.

Announcing . . .

Lecturer J. Jordan Humberstone was keynote speaker March 22 during Forster's Interiors "Oriental Odyssey" week. The store is located at 19435 Mack Avenue in Grosse Pointe Woods. . . Grosse Pointe attorney William C. Ghesquiere will discuss modern real estate practices during an eight-week course March 24 to May 17 at the War Memorial from 7 to 9 p.m. Enrollment is limited. For more information call 881-7511.

—Joanne Gouleche

Pagel teaches voice classes

Doris Pagel, known to the community for her work with the Chamber Music Players, will begin a new class in voice on Wednesday, March 31 at 7:30 p.m. at the War Memorial. The class will conclude on June 2 and the fee for the 10 two-hour lessons is $55. Mrs. Pagel will accept both beginning and intermediate students.

Auto Club opens Woods office

New offices of the Automobile Club of Michigan will open at 19299 Mack, Grosse Pointe Woods, Monday, March 29. The 15,300 square foot colonial-style building represents a $1.9 million investment, according to the club.

Auto Club's present Grosse Pointe location, at 15415 Jefferson, in the Park, will close permanently at 5 p.m. Friday, March 26.

Some 30,000 AAA members in northeast Detroit, Harper Woods and the Grosse Pointes will be served by Auto Club's Grosse Pointe Woods office. The new telephone number is 343-6000.

Jack Piana, Grosse Pointe manager since 1977, will continue to head the 70-member staff.

"The new facility solves our parking problem by offering 36 spaces adjacent to the building, plus parking available in a nearby shopping center lot," stated Piana. "Services are offered on one floor, eliminating visitors' use of stairs, which was a problem at the present site for some customers."

At the Mack Avenue location, Auto Club will offer a full complement of services, including auto, home, boat and MemberLife insurance, plus world and domestic travel planning.

The building is barrier-free to accommodate handicapped persons.

Balloons reinforce skills at Defer School

Wednesday, April 7 to work up to their potential, Defer promises to be a bright, fun-filled day at Defer Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Park. That's when the Defer Skills Development Program (Title I) is launching a balloon flight at 2:50 p.m. Students have been working diligently preparing short letters on brightly-colored cards to be attached to the helium balloons in hopes of having them answered by people in far away places, despite the fact some of the children are concerned that the finders "can't read or write English."

The idea for the balloon flight was conceived by Virginia M. Johnson and Carolyn Bennett, Skills Development Program instructors, with backing from Principal Jay Flowers.

Throughout the year, balloons have become significant to the students in the program. Title I is a federally-funded program designed to meet the special educational needs of low-achieving students. To encourage students them in for a game project, designed and made by the student to reinforce skills in reading and math. From there the students begin working toward balloon buttons as a sign of their achievements in math and reading. The culmination of all this is the balloon flight April 7.

Dance develops body awareness at ULS

The little boy in the navy blue shirt stands poised and ready. He has seen his friends attempt the same maneuver and he knows it isn't easy but he feels he can do it.

Glancing at the smile of reassurance from his teacher, he raises his arms, bends his knees and springs into action. One by one he targets his feet to land within the hoops which lie before him like stones across a brook. He hears the rhythm of the teacher's drum urging him onward. At last, with arms flapping he lands triumphantly at the final hoop and bounds to the end of the line.

"Terrific!" says his teacher. His look of satisfaction is the only reply needed.

Teaching the fundamentals of dance to children and adults is a labor of love for Jennifer Noyer at University Liggett School. Since 1957, she has taught in Hawaii, at Wayne State University and at Cranbrook prior to coming to ULS in 1978.

Mrs. Noyer believes that the value of dance extends beyond the usual considerations of good physical exercise. To her, the mind is as much a part of the program as the body. "Our overall goal in dance at the Lower School is to make youngsters aware of what the body can do and to help them use movement to solve problems and express their creativity."

With each group of children, Mrs. Noyer develops a series of exercises that challenge the students to discover what their bodies can communicate non-verbally through movement. Individually each child develops greater awareness of his or her own body.

"You can tell by the way kids draw that they aren't really aware of human form," pointed out Mrs. Noyer. "It's amazing how their perceptions and motor skills change after dance instructions."

Dance at ULS begins in pre-kindergarten where students become familiar with basic movements. In the second and third grades, children explore how to form three-dimensional shapes and designs. It is here that youngsters begin to relate musical melodies rather than just rhythms to movement. Fourth and fifth graders work on creating patterns of sounds, learning how to "measure" music and communicating ideas through movement.

"It's difficult at times to convince people that dance is as fundamental to a child's growth as any thought process," Mrs. Noyer said. "But when you are able to make their artistic needs as much a part of their education as anything else, you really begin to see how fully a child can mature."

Students cited in art, photography competition

More than 50 students from Grosse Pointe schools received awards in the 1982 Scholastic Art and Photography Awards regional competition.

This year marks the 55th year of the competition. In more than 60 regions throughout the U.S., well over 150,000 art and photography entries compete for regional and national honors and scholarships.

The competition was open to students in grades seven to 10. Blue ribbon honors will be forwarded to New York for national competition, and winners will be announced in May.

Thirty-four North High art students won more than 70 awards in the regional competition. Honored were seniors Timothy Bodendistel, Frances Cherry, Karla Groesbeck, Donald Houseman and Valerie Ryan, whose portfolios were accepted as finalists for national judging in New York City.

Others include Michael Grates, whose photograph won a Kodak Medal of Excellence, Timothy Bodendistel, whose graphic design won a special $50 award from the J. Walter Thompson Company, and Karla Groesbeck, whose pencil drawing won a coveted Hallmark Award Nomination, one of only five from more than 4,200 entries to be so honored.

The following students received these awards: Lynn Bascom received a certificate of merit for her print; Carl Blumstock, a certificate for graphic design; Tim Bodendistel received a blue ribbon, three gold keys, and four certificates for his graphic designs, pencil drawings and ink drawings; Cynthia Capps won a gold key for her ink drawing; Susan Campbell two certificates for pencil and charcoal drawing; Ken Campbell a gold key for graphic design and Rachel Chapman two certificates for watercolor and ink drawing.

More were John DeClair a certificate for pencil drawing; Linda DiGiulio a certificate for photography;

Paula Darnon a certificate for photography; Amy Elliott received a blue ribbon, gold key and certificate for graphic design and a certificate for textile design; Robert Gordon a certificate for photography; Michael Grates a blue ribbon for his Kodak Medal on a winning photograph; and Karla Groesbeck received three blue ribbons, a gold key and a certificate for her pencil, ink and acrylic work.

Other students receiving recognition were Steve Hatten for his work in pottery, a gold key; Laga Hilley a certificate and blue ribbon for pencil and ink drawing; Donald Houseman received a blue ribbon, gold key and certificate for pencil drawing; Linda Jennings a certificate for photography; Martha Johnson a gold key for graphic design; Jeff Kocian a gold key and certificate for his photos; Janet L. Healey two certificates for photography; Laura Lovisa a certificate in studies; and Jon Mager won a certificate in ink drawing and two gold keys in mixed media category.

Other successful participants included Jennie Callert and Beth Russell in Finance and Credit, Barb Ollis in Advertising Services and in Food Marketing competition, Christina Bageris and Tony Thomas took honors.

Parents enhance music program

The Grosse Pointe North High School Parent's Club, the Band and Orchestra Parents and the Grosse Pointe Foundation for Academic Enrichment are cooperating in the sponsorship of a music enrichment program at North.

This year's program consists of a variety of jazz styles presented by professional artists in a workshop demonstration as well as in individual instruction. Pianist and artist-in-residence at the Detroit Institute of Arts, Ms. Bess Bonnier, lead off the series with a program on Scott Joplin and an introduction to the history of jazz. Dr. William Albright, associate professor of Music Composition at the University of Michigan and associate director of the Electronic Music Studio, followed with a two-hour program on "Ragtime," tracing its development.

Ms. Bonnier in coordinating the series of programs has included Joe LoDuca, guitarist and Dan Kolton on bass to demonstrate their techniques and to discuss the problems of recording and promotion. The Grunions, a local "lightly jazz" vocal music male group performed and discussed music as an avocation.

The series of entertainment programs will conclude with Ms. Bonnier in a demonstration-workshop based on the piano as a solo and in a combo on Wednesday, March 31.

All of the programs are video-taped and are available for use by Grosse Pointe schools and community groups for educational purposes upon request. For more information, call 343-2187.

Magazine cites Mason students

Five students from Mason Elementary School in Grosse Pointe Woods received honorable mentions in the "Cricket League" international story competition sponsored by Cricket magazine.

The 11-year-old winners are Josh Abbott, Julie Koerber, Katie Koller, Stephanie Schaefer and David Schwartz. Their names appear in the April 1982 issue of the magazine.

The monthly writing and drawing competition is open to all Cricket readers in two age brackets: 5 to 8 and 9 to 12 years of age. Each monthly contest is unique with specific guidelines given in the "Cricket League" pages. Award winners are reported three issues later.

One cigarette brand that failed in the marketplace was a tobaccoless smoke made of cabbage called "Bravo." Recall it? Then there was one of cocoa beans called "Free." Another of herbs was "Honey De Luxe."

The most successful of Hollywood comedy teams, financially, was Bud Abbott and Lou Costello. However, the team that received the most Academy Awards — was the cartoon pair, Tom and Jerry.

Six University Liggett School students were recent participants in the first annual Middle School Leadership Conference held at Cranbrook March 3.

The workshops were sponsored by the Parents League of Independent Schools and were coordinated by Larry Griffin of ULS, Judy Leyburn of Detroit Country Day School and Chris Swartout of Cranbrook. The purpose of the workshops were to involve ULS students and other area middle schoolers in learning about group dynamics and leadership techniques.

Seventeen schools participated in this year's conference. ULS students who attended included Wendy Willett, Mary Jane Mertz, Lisa Dissor, John Andary, David Chilingarian and Bob Jewett.

First out of the starting gate

Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara last week became the first of what is expected to be a large field of candidates to file for the new office of Wayne County executive which was established last fall when voters adopted a county charter.

In his announcement of his candidacy, McNamara said the right things about the office and the charter. He said he would use the powers of the county executive to "straighten out the mess known as Wayne County government." And he emphasized that in voting for the charter Wayne County voters showed they "want an end to the political opportunism, massive deficits, uncontrolled waste and widespread inefficiency that have made Wayne County government a sick joke." He was on target with both comments.

McNAMARA brings to his campaign a long record in local, regional and state government. He served as president of the Dearborn Township school board, city councilman in Livonia, member of the Detroit Board of Water Commissioners, president of the Municipal League and the Michigan Conference of Mayors, chairman of the board of directors of the Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority, and in a number of other leadership posts. He was a Michigan Bell Telephone Co. executive before starting his full-time public service career.

In announcing his candidacy, McNamara was critical of the efforts of high-salaried county personnel to insulate themselves in their jobs by forming a new union and signing a six-year contract with the road commission. But just how independent he himself would be of the labor interests that have often dominated county offices remains to be seen. His campaign committee includes two regional UAW directors as well as the secretary-treasurer of the Michigan Building Trades Council. Those appointments hint that organized labor will play an important role in his campaign.

McNamara also has said the right things about city-suburb cooperation. When chairman of SEMTA, McNamara was credited with helping Detroit and the suburban representatives reach a compromise over the regional rapid transportation plan. Emphasizing the necessity for the cities and suburbs to work together, he said, "We have more common problems than we do differences, and the only way to resolve them is jointly—by working together as a team."

Critics have said, however, that McNamara has overdone his cooperation with Detroit and hint that if elected county executive he would become a stooge for Mayor Coleman Young who appointed him to the Detroit water board back in 1974. Yet McNamara has organized and led the suburban opposition to the recent rate increases proposed by the water board.

THE LIVONIA mayor will not be the only candidate for the Democratic nomination for county executive. Others who have indicated interest are County Sheriff William Lucas, Sen. John Hertel, former County Commissioner Robert FitzPatrick and Detroit City Councilman Mel Ravitz. Nobody in the Pointes has talked about making a campaign for the job, perhaps because of the death of Democrats in the Pointes and the fact Democrats have filled practically all of the county's elective offices in recent years.

McNamara lacks the name recognition of the other prospective candidates. Yet he has started out with a well-organized campaign which could quickly remedy that failing. What Pointers and other county voters should do before the August primary is to weigh the records of all the candidates, learn whether they really support the aims of the charter, and assess their honesty, integrity and independence. Picking the best man available for county executive is the key to making charter reform work.

The new tax revolution

It is easy to sympathize with homeowners in the Pointes and elsewhere in the state who are protesting and appealing their 1982 property tax assessments in record numbers in a new property tax "revolt."

At a time when the Grosse Pointe Real Estate Exchange and realtors elsewhere are reporting substantial price declines, it is disconcerting for homeowners to find their property assessments—and their taxes—still going up.

The explanation is that the Wayne County Bureau of Taxation is using a 30-month study of home sales as its standard of measurement. That study shows a 10 percent rise in prices in the City and Farms, almost 13 percent in the Park and Shores and 9 percent in the Woods in the 30-month period that includes 1979, 1980 and the first half of 1981.

Inter-Faith goal

A letter to the editor of the Grosse Pointe News last week raised a question as to why the co-director of the Grosse Pointe Inter-Faith Center for Racial Justice, the subject of an earlier profile in the Grosse Pointe News, chose "to live and raise her family in a lily-white community."

We thought the story had made clear the aim of the center in its own words: "Born of the urban violence in Detroit in 1967, the Inter-Faith Center is a non-profit organization which promotes racial understanding, confronts and challenges all prejudice and works toward equal opportunity for all, regardless of race, religion, sex or ethnic background."

Yet it is true that the Grosse Pointes are almost lily-white. The most recent figures on the racial makeup of this community come from the fall 1980 elementary and secondary school civil rights survey, a report that is filed every two years with the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, now known as the Department of Health and Human Services.

That report showed a total of 8,753 students in the Grosse Pointe public schools with 8,564 whites, 123 Asians or from the Pacific Islands, 29 blacks, 25 Hispanics and 12 American Indians or Alaskan natives. In other words, only 189 students or 2.16 percent, came from minority families.

We don't speak for Katie Elsila but we thought she had answered the specific question asked in the letter, when she said: "Diversity enriches our lives. We have a beautiful community, something for everyone. But there's one thing missing: racial and ethnic diversity. If my children could have that as well as everything else, I would feel that this would be a complete community."

HOWEVER, WE'RE TOLD that if the decline in price continues, the 1983 assessments will reflect the change, which ought to be some consolation to property owners. Another consolation—if you want to call it that—is that when prices began to rise several years ago, increases in assessments lagged because of the application of the 30-month rule.

But while we're sympathetic to individual homeowners who are appealing their assessments, it is difficult to believe that the Macomb County Board of Commissioners will get any place with its political ploy to roll back all residential property assessments in that county by 10.4 percent.

The Macomb commissioners have threatened to take the state to court if it attempts to reimpose the 10.4 rollback. But the state has the final word on assessed valuations to make sure that school districts get fair and uniform support. So if the state puts an "equalization factor" on Macomb County to bring the county's assessed valuations back to their original level, the factor would affect every piece of residential property—including those that might have had no increase this year or had an increase of less than 10.4 percent.

The Macomb commissioners did the same thing two years ago—rolling back the assessments a flat 10 percent at that time—and then meekly submitted without going to court when the state reimposed the original figure. So the current move looks like another political ploy to make the commissioners look good—and to make the state tax officials the villains of the piece.

While the local boards of review seldom are able to provide tax reduction or abatement to the extent desired by property owners, they often are able to correct errors or equalize assessments which are transparently out of line. So even the assessors themselves sometimes file appeals, as Park assessor James Ellison did.

WHAT EFFECT the generally higher assessments will have on property taxes won't be known exactly, however, until the local city councils and the board of education approve their budgets and set their tax rates. It would be possible, of course, for taxes to go down if budgets were cut and rates fell below those of 1981. But in light of continuing inflation, homeowners shouldn't count on that eventuality this time around.

What the flood of appeals against the new assessments hints, however, is that the property tax rebellion is not yet over and that there may be new pressure on the Legislature to include some property tax relief in its new tax package. Yet that will be exceedingly difficult to do in view of the state's need to make new cuts in spending and possibly even increase the income tax to boost state revenues and achieve a balanced budget.

Inter-Faith members are working for a better future

To the Editor:

Thank you for featuring me as Pointer of Interest last month. Peggy O'Connor's well-written article had one omission, however. Referring to our funding sources, the article mentioned contributions from individuals and special events. In addition, a quarter of our funding comes from contributions from our 17 member churches.

The reaction to the article has been overwhelmingly supportive and positive. But, I would like to respond to Geoff Gowman, who, in last week's letter to the editor column, asked, "How can this lady, born and raised in Detroit, Co-Director of the Grosse Pointe Inter Faith Center for Racial Justice, professing concern about racial understanding and racial equality choose to live and raise her family in a lily-white community?"

The question seems to be, "Can a person who professes to believe in racial equality and racial understanding in good consciousness choose to live in Grosse Pointe?"

If the answer is "no" then what hope is there that the community will ever change beyond its well-known stereotype as a lily white, insulated community?

If the answer is "yes," then how can that person demonstrate those values and beliefs while still living in Grosse Pointe?

Some members of our community have chosen the Inter-

Faith Center as a vehicle for demonstrating those beliefs. Members of the center help promote racial understanding in our community through such activities as monthly Third Thursday Forums, which focus on social justice issues, the Martin Luther King, Jr. Essay Contest for students; bus tours of the metro Detroit area which demonstrate the economic dynamics behind neighborhood deterioration and revitalization; a speakers' bureau; task forces which relate to community institutions. In addition, we work with other groups throughout the metro area who are also concerned about racial justice and equality.

Run has a lofty goal

To the Editor:

I am concerned that your readers were greatly misinformed concerning the Family Fun Run article appearing in the News March 11.

My primary concern in appearing before the Farms Council was to articulate the overall purpose of the Family Fun Run. And that purpose is to help make our community aware that prevention of blight on Mack Avenue is also prevention of deterioration of our residential community as well. It is an historical fact that a blighted service area leads to a regression of private property values.

I have become active with the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association to make our major community service area (Mack Avenue) attractive and continually upgraded. Gerald Leudtke, urban planner and architect, advises that community participation in helping to upgrade the vitality of our service area is the best method of preventing blight and deterioration of our overall community.

The article, in an apparent attempt to focus on the division among Farms council members in support of the Family Fun Run, failed to mention that the Run was previously approved unanimously by the councils of Grosse Pointe Park, City and Woods. The Run was also approved by the City of Detroit and the Wayne County Road Commission.

It is true that many entry forms were circulated before approval was obtained from the various councils. However, it was assumed by the board of directors of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association that whereas the Detroit Free Press, the Woods Sport Shop and Cottage Hospital all had runs through Grosse Pointe, obtaining approval was a formality and not a major obstacle.

We of the Grosse Pointe Business and Professional Association do not want to create a problem, only help either prevent one or solve one.

All the proceeds from the run derived from the $5 entry fee pays for each entrant's T-shirt, the cost of 66 prizes to be awarded and free refreshments at the end of the race, will be used to beautify Mack Avenue. That is our ongoing purpose.

We invite all the citizens of the community to participate with us. It's a great opportunity to take that first step toward physical fitness this spring as well as help your community remain the best in Michigan.

Edward Kane
Grosse Pointe Farms

Pool plea

To the Editor:

Dear voters, Please come out to vote "yes" on the advisory proposal for a new community pool which will be on the June 14 ballot. Why? Because:

- Our community needs another pool for all the persons who are turning to swimming for their recreation and health reasons.

- The Grosse Pointe School Board has a large amount of extra money now and will be getting much, much more with the new assessed evaluations on homes.

- The property owners who pay a very great percentage of their tax dollars to the school system should get something concrete for their money.

- All property owners who pay taxes do not all play football or basketball, but they can swim at all ages. It's right that folks who pay school taxes but do not have children in school get something for themselves for their tax dollars.

- With the possible closing of schools in the future, we could lose the use of one or more existing pools.

- Our community is a special place to live. We must look to the future and provide for ourselves, our children, grandchildren and the next generations.

- Now is the time to tell the Grosse Pointe Board of Education that we want them to consider the building of a new community pool. When all the studies are done, then, we would vote again for the pool, as proposed.

Joan Bartoszewicz, Chairman
Citizens for A New Community Pool

Pointe symphony deserves support

To the Editor:

Just recently, I attended my first Grosse Pointe Symphony concert and was pleasantly surprised by the excellence of the orchestra under the direction of Felix Resnick.

I wonder how many others in our community are unaware, as I was, of this cultural treasure right within the Grosse Pointes. We often don't appreciate and support what is close at hand.

Regina Gersch

Leader hopes to avoid tax hike

To the Editor:

Your March 18, editorial "No state is an island..." says I have a problem with the Governor's initial proposal of a permanent 7 percent income tax increase. You are very correct.

However, you then say that I have "proposed a short-term income tax hike..." That is not correct.

What I said, as printed in your paper, after saying I would propose as much cuts as could be responsibly supported, is as follows: "One possibility would be an emergency four month, 1 percent increase in the income tax, from April to July only. We'll see. I hope it is possible to avoid any general tax increase, even an emergency one."

I must say it will be very difficult to advocate cuts equal to the entire $586 million deficit, and the cash flow crisis and the need to balance the next year's budget present similar difficulties.

I do reject the Governor's call for a 7 percent permanent increase in the income tax, and we will offer alternatives.

William R. Bryant, Jr.
Republican Leader

From Another Pointe Of View

By Janet Mueller

It's spring cleaning time — but before you pitch out the old this year, take a good, long look at it. And remember: one person's junk is another person's treasure. The Founders Society Detroit Institute of Arts will welcome your disposable treasures as donations to The World's Classiest Rummage Sale, a day-long, double-feature session of public appraisals by 10 experts from Christie's (Fine Arts Auctioneers), New York, AND the public sale of donated, "classy" rummage on Saturday, April 24, at the Recess Club on the 11th floor of the Fisher Building.

Everyone is welcome to donate everything except clothing and perishables. Furniture and calculators, cars and office equipment, china, silver, objects d'art, tools, crystal, quilts . . . all are welcome. The Founders' silver truck, staffed to provide acknowledgement forms for tax deductions, will be at the Grosse Pointe collection point, University Liggett School, Saturday and Sunday, April 10 and 11, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Donors may present a professional appraisal or sign a declared value statement.

If donations require special arrangements, a call to the Founders Society office, 833-1719, will arrange them. The Founders are, by the way, sponsoring a special event in conjunction with Appraisal/Sale Day: a panel discussion on buying, selling and collecting Friday evening, April 23, over dinner at the museum. Proceeds from The World's Classiest Rummage Sale and Christie's appraisals will benefit the Founders' general operating funds, which make possible many outstanding museum events and exhibitions enjoyed by the entire community.

Independent Schools' Showcase

Art & Performing Arts '82, sponsored by the Parents' League of Independent Schools of Michigan, will showcase the artistic and musical accomplishments of students from 21 area independent schools, including the Grosse Pointe Academy and University Liggett, at Somerset Mall starting Sunday, March 28, with a free evening of family entertainment, and continuing through Sunday, April 4.

A Century-Plus Tradition

Back in 1878, when the Lutheran Ladies Auxiliary for the Deaf was organized, its purpose was "to keep the Lutheran School for the Deaf a home away from home for the deaf child." That's still the Auxiliary's primary purpose today. Bedding, curtains, drapes, cooking utensils, furniture, rugs, play equipment, toys, books, Christmas treats . . . through the years, the Auxiliary has provided anything needed to make a real home for the children.

In the 1950s, an annual scholarship fund of $400 was established. The fund now stands at $6,000 per year. A station wagon was purchased in 1963, a van in 1973. Monies are set aside monthly into a bus van account so that they will be available when the present equipment needs to be replaced.

The Auxiliary is justifiably proud of its century-plus tradition. There are 218 members on its current active role, plus 54 honorary members; many of the latter are

Detroit Review Club to gather at Ford House

Round tables, covered with white cloths and centered with bowls of pink carnations and other colorful spring flowers, will bring a festive air to the Gallery of the Edsel & Eleanor Ford House on Tuesday, April 13, when members and guests of the Detroit Review Club gather there for their annual meeting and New Members' Luncheon.

Mrs. James Mullaney, president of DRC, who has held two of her annual meetings at the Ford House, will act as official hostess. DRC's 1982 annual meeting begins at 10:30 a.m. in the Dining Room, famous for its 18th century pine paneling.

Mrs. Mullaney, after calling for committee reports, will introduce the new slate of officers and directors. President-elect is Mrs. Robert Gerisch, of Bloomfield Hills, the Review Club's longtime music chairman and past-president of two organizations closely associated with DRC: the Auxiliary to the Salvation Army, founded by the late Mrs. R. H. Ashbaugh (Delphine Dodge), a DRC president, and the Women's City Club. DRC's home starting 1924.

Betty Gerisch has won many local awards, including a Heart of Gold, for her community and charitable service, plus a national award for her ability as a fund raiser.

The slate continues with Mrs. Justin Emery and Mrs. James Stuart Jr. as first and second vice-presidents, respectively. Mrs. Gordon McLellan and Mrs. Bernard McLellan as recording and corresponding secretaries, respectively, and Mrs. Fred Gies as treasurer. Directors include Mrs. Mullaney, the retiring president, Mrs. Joseph Parlys and Mrs. Frank J. Welcembach, chairman of the day.

Kay Welcembach is one of the busiest women in Grosse Pointe. She serves as a Docent for both the Ford House and the Grosse Pointe War Memorial. She's a talented, well-known photographer and has just finished a three-day, one woman show for Fine Arts at The Players.

She majored in English, History and Speech at the University of Wisconsin, then earned her Masters degree after summer studies at colleges and universities throughout the world. She has taught in the Grosse Pointe Schools, and has been identified with University Liggett since 1947.

Preceding luncheon, the DRC group will gather in the Ford House Drawing Room, where reproductions of French Impressionist paintings (the originals are now at the Detroit Institute of Arts) complement an exceptional collection of 18th century French furniture. Chilled white wine and hot hors cept the gavel from Mrs. Mullaney. The Mesdames Welcembach, Wilcox and Mullaney are Grosse Pointers. Mrs. Gerisch is a resident of Bloomfield Hills. They are posed in front of a reproduction of one of the late Eleanor Ford's favorite paintings: "Anemones" by Henri Matisse. A highlight of the DRC's day at the Ford House will be a tour led by Docent Kay Welcembach, including a series of second floor rooms among which is Eleanor Ford's pink and gold bedroom suite.

d'oeuvres will be served among these treasures.

Post-luncheon, Mrs. Allyne Litchfield, membership chairman, will introduce five new members — Mrs. Robert Bauer, Mrs. Joseph Bonino, Mrs. J. A. Kelly, Mrs. Robert Reed and Mrs. Irving Tuttle — all from the Grosse Pointe Harper Woods area. Each will receive a corsage featuring a pink carnation, DRC's flower.

Table talk between Mrs. Robert Kefgen, the Review Club's program chairman, and Mrs. Frederic Beddow, co-chairman of DRC's spring benefit, set for late April, will undoubtedly center on this next club party. It will be staged at Lochmoor Club.

Church Women meet in March

The Women's Association of the Grosse Pointe Congregational and American Baptist Church held group meetings last Tuesday, March 23. Lydia Group gathered at 10 a.m. in the Blairmoor Court home of Mrs. Joseph Schwartz, who was assisted by co-hostesses Mrs. Ella Carroll and Mrs. George Polen. The members sold good, used gift boxes among themselves.

Mary Group members met at 11 a.m. in the Church Lounge for a talk by Leona Riebling, on the Nuclear Weapons Freeze Campaign, and luncheon. Naomi Group members, meeting at 11 a.m. in the Friendly Service Room at the church, made birthday favors for residents at the Whittier and continued working on items for the upcoming Church Mart. Naomi's co-hostesses were Mrs. Charles McNair and Mrs. Rudolph Larson.

"Your Own Ways of Pinching Pennies" was the program for Sarah Group, meeting at 11 a.m. in the McMillan Road home of Mrs. John Horn. Mrs. Louis Charvat was co-hostess.

Mrs. Donald Cook opened her Pear Tree Lane home to Rachel Group members, who gathered at 7:30 p.m. to work on felt items for the Church Mart. Co-hostess was Mrs. John Frakes.

Welcoming Dr. Baranczak . . .

DR. and MRS. WALLACE GASIEWICZ (right), of Devonshire Road, were on hand to greet Professor STANISLAW BARANCZAK, Ph.D., flanked by DR. ANNA DADLEZ (left), director, Polish Institute, Saginaw Valley State College, and DR. CEZARY MENDELIUS (center), Saginaw Valley State College, during his mid-February visit to this area. Dr. Baranczak is a renowned scholar and poet, originally from Poznan, Poland, now associate professor of Slavic Languages and Literature at Harvard University. Among those who sent messages welcoming him to Michigan were Lieutenant Governor James Brickley, Dr. Zbigniew Brzezinski and Bobby Vinton.

Progressive Artists gather tomorrow

Progressive Artist Club members gather tomorrow, Friday, March 26, at 7:30 p.m. at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial for their monthly meeting, featuring a demonstration by watercolorist and oil painter Shirley Hathaway. The program is open to interested members of the public and guests. Admission is $1.

Ms. Hathaway, a member of the Scarab Club, Michigan Water Color Society, Detroit Society of Women Painters, Southfield and Macomb Artist Societies and Warren and Fraser Art Association, has studied under Richard Kozlow of Royal Oak and Charles Reed of Connecticut. She is working for her Bachelor of Arts degree at Wayne State University.

She has received many awards and ribbons for her entries in art shows. She currently has a one woman show at the Southfield Parks and Recreation Gallery and will be featured at the Art Center of Mount Clemens next month. Many of her paintings are in private collections, including those of the National Bank of Detroit, the Detroit Chamber of Commerce, Fruehauf and other large corporations.

Birthday luncheon DKG date in April

Members of the eight chapters — Alpha, Kappa, Lambda, Zeta, Alpha Mu, Beta Delta, Beta Theta and Beta Xi — of Delta Kappa Gamma Society International's Metropolitan Detroit Council will welcome two Windsor, Ont., chapters of the honorary fraternity for women teachers to the Council's 16th birthday luncheon Saturday, April 3, at noon at the Grosse Pointe War Memorial.

Council President Kay Mullaney, Beta Xi, Grosse Pointe, will preside. The invocation will be given by another Beta Xi, Frances Morris. There will be a candle lighting ceremony during which each chapter will contribute a $10 birthday gift to the DKG International Foundation for Education.

Theme of the day, "Ms. America," will be portrayed in a one-woman show by Kerry Price Gower, director of Music at Bloomfield Hills' Pilgrim Congregational Church, director of the Royal Oak Musicale's Women's Chorus, singer and accompanist with Pontiac's Jackson Chorale.

Focus on health of adolescents

Adolescents, particularly those aged 15 to 19, are the only age group in the United States with increasing death rates: up 7.5 percent since 1960, now totalling 50,000 annually. In today's society, the health needs of adolescents have accelerated due to an increase in the incidence of teenage pregnancy, substance abuse, venereal disease and homicide or suicide.

"Networking for Youth: Adolescent Health in the 80s," a conference to be held tomorrow, Friday, March 26, at the International Institute of Detroit, is designed to enhance the skills of a wide variety of professionals who deal with the health needs of the adolescent.

The conference, presented by the United Community Services-Adolescent Health Project, is co-sponsored by many public and private organizations, including New Detroit, Inc., School Health Education Resources Coordination Project, March of Dimes-Metropolitan Detroit Chapter and Oakland Chapter, Michigan Heart Association, Blue Cross/Blue Shield of Michigan, Detroit Health Department, Michigan Office of Substance Abuse Services and Narcotics Addiction Rehabilitation Coordinating Organization.

Sessions will offer professional training and facilitate networking among a multi-disciplinary group of professionals, from substance abuse counselors to physicians, nurses, educators, social workers, information and referral specialists and others who deal with young people. Numerous lectures and exhibits will promote a more comprehensive approach to improving the physical and mental health of young people.

Inservice workshop topics include adolescent sexuality (pregnancy, communication with parents and peers, contraceptive behavior, sexually transmitted diseases), mental and emotional health (suicide and depression, coping and stress), substance use and abuse, sexual assault and physical abuse, teen utilization of health services and legal issues.

Dr. Robert Blum, director of the Adolescent Health Program at the

GP Co-op Nursery open house slated

The Grosse Pointe Cooperative Nursery, headquartered at the United Methodist Church on Moross Road, invites parents and their children to observe typical three-year-old morning activities at an open house next Tuesday, March 30, from 9:30 to 10:30 a.m.

The nursery is currently accepting 1982-83 registrations for both three and four-year-old classes. Parents unable to attend Tuesday's open house are invited to contact Kathy Kasiborski, 885-3467, or Ann Chevalier, 882-7737, for further information.

Early reservations for next year's season are advised, as enrollment is limited.

Complete Ideas Unlimited year

Grosse Pointe Faculty Wives met Wednesday, March 10, in Grosse Pointe South High School's Clemenson Hall for their last Ideas Unlimited program of the 1981-82 school year: "Financial Strategies for Women" presented by Bob W. Melling, a representative of the Washington National Insurance Company. Dessert and coffee were served by Mrs. Richard Kay, who chaired the evening.

DSO presents pops concerts

Singer and songwriter Judy Collins joins Detroit Symphony Orchestra Resident Conductor Kenneth Jean for DSO Weekender Pops performances in Ford Auditorium tomorrow, Friday, March 26, at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, March 28, at 3:30 p.m. The orchestral part of the program will feature music from Walt Disney's "Fantasia." Collins will sing material by Joni Mitchell, Brel, Shuman, Rogers and Hart, Blau, Juannest, Sondheim and several of her own selections.

Tickets for both concerts, ranging in price from $10 to $14.50, are available in limited quantities from the Ford Auditorium box office, where VISA and MasterCard customers may phone in orders (962-5524).

Collins is making her DSO debut appearance. Her first interest was classical music, her first instrument the piano, but as she grew up she took up the guitar and, as a teenager, sang folk songs in clubs around Denver. Col Her first two albums, "Ain't no Constant Sorrow" and "Golden Apples of the Sun," made in the early 1960s, brought her critical acclaim as an artist of the folk field.

With her next three albums: "Judy Collins in Concert," "Judy Collins 5" and "In My Life," she broke new ground by singing contemporary material. She began recognizing new composers.

In this mid-60s period, Collins also became an activist, lending her name, time and music to political causes. The release of "Wildflowers," her first album to go gold, revealed another facet of her life: songwriting; five other Collins albums have since achieved gold status.

Trowel, Error Club to meet

The Trowel and Error Garden Club gathers today, Thursday, March 25, at Anita's Arts and Crafts Shoppe on Mack Avenue for instruction in decorating a goose egg to be placed on a stand, as an Easter project. The workshop begins promptly at 10:30 a.m. There will be a break for a business meeting and lunch. Mrs. Ned Kegler and Mrs. Thomas Clark are co-hostesses.

Founders' luncheon for Alpha Xi Delta

Members of the Grosse Pointe and Macomb County Alumnae Chapter of Alpha Xi Delta will be attending their sorority's annual Founders' Day luncheon Saturday, April 3, at Topinka's Country House, joining alumnae chapter representatives from Oakland and Western Wayne counties and Detroit and representatives from Michigan's five collegiate chapters to celebrate the beginning of their organization.

Alpha Xi Delta, one of the original 10 sororities in the National Panhellenic Conference, was founded in 1893. Mrs. Donald Black, president of the local alumnae chapter, may be contacted at 779-8966 for further information.

in their 90s, and at least two have reached the century mark themselves. Many of the members are making plans to travel to the School on East Nevada near Van Dyke on the first Tuesday of next month, April 6, for April is anniversary month for the Lutheran Ladies Auxiliary for the Deaf, and that's a cause for celebration.

The Auxiliary will mark its 104th anniversary with a divine service starting at 10:30 a.m. in the School Chapel, followed by a special luncheon, in the School Gym. Reservations for the luncheon (donation is $3.50) should be made by contacting Clara Manske at 882-4683 or Ruth Haase at 527-8824. The Reverend Joseph Fabry, of Grosse Pointe's Christ the King Lutheran Church, is pastoral advisor for the Auxiliary.

Behind the Off-Broadway Scenes

Sheila Casey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. Paul Casey, of Rathbone Place, is completing her senior year at Ohio Wesleyan University after an apprenticeship in New York City where she served as assistant stage manager for the Off-Broadway production "After The Prize." Sheila received full academic credit for her 15-week apprenticeship, arranged through the Great Lakes Colleges Association Arts Program, and, when she wasn't on the job, was able to supplement her practical work experience by seeing "tons and tons of shows" in New York's theater districts.

Through job connections, she was even able to secure free tickets to the Broadway adaptation of Charles Dickens' "Nicholas Nickleby," an eight-hour production with a price tag of up to $100 a seat. Upon her return to Ohio Wesleyan in January, the University Liggett School graduate landed a leading role in "Female Transport," a play by Steve Gooch which examines the lives of six women exiled by the British government in the days when Britain was seeking ways to populate its newest colonies.

A Premier New York Performance

The New York City debut of the "Greater Passion Play" from the medieval Carmina Burana manuscript took place last weekend, at The Cloisters, where it was performed on Friday, Saturday and Sunday by the Indiana University School of Music Pro Arte Ensemble, under the direction of Professor Thomas Binkley. Among 29 student singers and instrumentalists participating in the production was David Ludwig, of Rivard-Boulevard.

Met Week Tickets on Sale

Mail order ticket brochures are now available to the general public for the May 24 through 29 productions by New York's Metropolitan Opera Company at Masonic Auditorium, and may be obtained by calling 832-5200 between 9 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. All ticket ordering must be done by mail until Mid-April, when the DGOA begins telephone sales at Masonic. In May, the Association's Masonic box office opens for over-the-counter sales.

This will be the 24th consecutive year that the DGOA has sponsored the Met in Detroit. Opening night brings a new production of Offenbach's "Tales of Hoffman," conducted by Julius Rudel, featuring Eugenia Moldoveanu, Ruth Welting, Isola Jones, Kenneth Riegel and James Morris. The following night, soprano Renata Scotto stars in the title role of Puccini's "Madama Butterfly."

Verdi's "Il Trovatore" Wednesday evening, May 26, will feature Gilda Cruz-Romo, Bianca Berini, Juan Lloveras and Ferdinand Radovan. Mozart's "Magic Flute" will be performed in English on Thursday, with Gail Robinson, Osceola Davis, Donald Gramm and John Macurdy, and Renata Scotto returns on Friday as Bellini's "Norma." The scheduled Saturday matinee presentation is a new production of Rossini's "Barber of Seville," featuring the celebrated sets of Marc Chagall. The Met Company ends its stay in Detroit with Verdi's "Rigoletto," featuring Gail Robinson and Louis Quilico, Saturday evening.

Ticket prices range from $7.50 to $36, with availability varying according to the popularity of the opera. Preference in ordering tickets is always given to the DGOA's contributing members and season ticket holders.

Bertini returns to lead DSO

Detroit Symphony Orchestra Music Adviser Gary Bertini, who has been guest conducting with orchestras in Paris, Amsterdam, Stuttgart, Frankfurt, Jerusalem, Tel Aviv and the United States since December, returns to the Ford Auditorium podium for DSO concerts tonight, Thursday, March 25, and Saturday, March 27, at 8:30 p.m. Featured artist, in his Ford Auditorium debut, is Czech violinist Josef Suk. The program will include Mozart's Violin Concerto No. 3 in G K.216 and Mahler's Symphony No. 5 in C sharp minor. Tickets for both concerts, ranging in price from $7 to $15, may be obtained at the Ford Auditorium box office, where VISA and MasterCard customers can order them by phone (962-5524).

The DSO policy for all regular subscription concerts is that $4 tickets for students and senior citizens are available on a limited basis at the door starting at 7:30 p.m. on each concert evening.

Suk, great-grandson of Antonin Dvorak and grandson of the famed Czech composer Josef Suk, for whom he is named, was born in Prague in 1929. He studied first with the distinguished violinist Jaroslav Kocian, later at the Prague Conservatory, and at the age of 20 was sent to Paris and Brussels to represent the younger generation of Czech violinists.

In 1950 he founded the Suk Trio in honor of his grandfather, and subsequently toured several continents with this group which soon gained a reputation as one of Czechoslovakia's leading chamber music ensembles.

Faculty Wives to play bridge

Grosse Pointe Faculty Wives will gather for their next monthly bridge group meeting Monday, April 5, at 7:30 p.m. in the home of Mrs. James Haskell, where dessert and coffee will be served courtesy of Mrs. David LaDuke. Any Faculty Wives interested in joining the group may contact Mrs. Gordon Morian, 822-8251, for further information.

League-Goodwill Juniors plan party

Members of the Junior Group of League for the Handicapped-Goodwill Industries have invited guests to join them at a just-for-fun cocktail and dinner party tomorrow, Friday March 26, at the Top of the Buhl Building Savoyard Club in downtown Detroit. Reservations for the evening, at $17 per person, were taken by Doris Sanford, of Ann Arbor.

LINDAY L. MALICKI, daughter of MITCHELL and LAURA MALICKI, of Hidden Lane, was named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Michigan State University. Linda, who is an alumna of Our Lady Star of the Sea High School, earned a 4.0 average as a freshman carrying 17 credits hours and majoring in engineering.

DR. and MRS. FRANK POLLINA, of Columbus, Ohio, announce the birth of their second child, a daughter, KRISTEN ELIZABETH POLLINA, Jan. 24. Mrs. Pollina is the former GAIL ELDRIDGE, daughter of the late MR. and MRS. JAMES ELDRIDGE, of The Park. Paternal grandparents are CAROL POLLINA, of Lothrop Road, and the late DR. CLEMENT POLLINA. Older brother RYAN, is 1 1/2.

HILDRETH A. MACY, of Notre Dame Avenue, received a Master of Arts in Education degree from the University of Michigan in December 1981.

Edsel & Eleanor Ford House, will explain to the luncheon guests the conditions of Eleanor Clay Ford's will, which stipulated that her home be used for the benefit of the public and established a trust for its maintenance. One special room on the first floor has been left intact. It is the late Edsel Ford's study, filled with photographs and personal mementos, unchanged since his death in 1943.

Weather permitting, the DRC group will have a view of the carpet of tiny bluebells and yellow crocus that mark spring's arrival on the Ford House grounds. Indoors, a special afternoon treat is planned. Docent Kay Welchenbach will lead a tour through the House, including the second floor where among the rooms on view will be Eleanor Ford's bedroom suite, furnished in Louis XV furniture and decorated in her favorite colors of pink and gold.

November rites for Miss Makos

Christ Lutheran Church was the setting for the candlelight wedding of Catherine Ann Makos, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Makos, of Notre Dame Avenue, and Robert Dean Hoernschemeyer, son of the Frank Hoernschemeyers, of Huntington Woods.

The 7 o'clock ceremony Saturday, November 21, at which Pastor Lorenz Grumm officiated was followed by a reception in the Grosse Pointe War Memorial's Alger House.

The newlyweds are at home in Plymouth. They plan to vacation at Bar Harbor, Me., this spring.

The bride wore her mother's gown, imported from France in 1951, of candlelight Chantilly lace over satin. She designed and made her own veil. Sprays of pink-throated white dendrobium orchids and cymbidium orchids, with Ti leaves and Ming fern, formed her bouquet.

Honor attendant Lise E. Glaser, of St. Louis, Mo., and bridesmaids Linda D. Chase, of Tampa, Fla., and Carol A. Saes, of Saginaw, college roommates of the bride at Michigan State University, wore tea length dresses of mauve chiffon. Each carried a bouquet of Ti leaves with sprays of white-throated rose-pink dendrobium orchids, and placed a single matching orchid in her hair.

Vocalist Sara A. Hoernschemeyer, the bridegroom's sister, sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "Oh Perfect Love."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hoernschemeyer

Best man was Emerson M. Vorel Jr., of Roseman, Mt. Groomsman were Lawrence P. Hutchinson, of Columbus, O., and John J. Remillet. Ushers were Craig A. and Paul D. Hoernschemeyer, the bridegroom's brothers, and Steven B. Makos, brother of the bride.

Mrs. Makos chose a tea length dress of burgundy chiffon, with color coordinated accessories, for her daughter's wedding. She pinned a dendrobium orchid to her purse.

The bridegroom's mother selected gold accessories to accent her tea length dress of taupe Qiana.

Lucille Queen wed in Arizona

Lucille Beecher Queen, a Grosse Pointe resident for some 30 years before moving to Sun City, Ariz., and Clarence "Nick" Carter, who moved to Sun City from Colorado a while back, exchanged marriage vows Saturday, Feb. 27, in Sun City's First United Presbyterian Church. Lucille's two children, William W. Queen and Marianne (Mrs. Robert) Pear, still live in The Pointe.

Women and Credit program to return

Brenda L. Schneider, second vice-president and marketing officer at Manufacturers National Corporation, returns to the Grosse Pointe Central Library, Kercheval Avenue at Fisher Road, next Wednesday, March 31, at 2 p.m. to tell how single, divorced, married and widowed women may easily establish their own credit and what rights they have.

Her presentation in the library's Exhibition Room is open free of charge to all residents, on a first-come basis. Ms. Schneider, who has appeared on several local radio and television talk shows, serves as a Consumer Education advisor for several metropolitan area school districts and was a major participant in the "Women and Mortgage Credit Project Summary, 1979-80," financed via the League of Women Voters Education Fund under a grant from HUD.

Oriental Art group to focus on China

The Michigan Oriental Art Society will present Anthony Derham, director of the Asian Department of Christies, with an illustrated lecture, "The Eye of The Collector: The Frederick M. Mayer Collection of Chinese Art," at 8 p.m. Friday, March 26, in the Atlanta Room of the Hyatt Regency, Dearborn.

There is no admission charge for the program. It will be preceded by a 3 to 5 p.m. opportunity for an individual appraisal of Oriental Art objects (three items maximum), for which a $5 tax deductible donation to MOAS is requested.

To open Cranbrook House this Sunday

Cranbrook House, part of the Cranbrook Educational Community on Lone Pine Road in Bloomfield Hills, will herald the spring season with a 2 to 4 p.m. open house this Sunday, March 28. Guides will be present to conduct tours. Call 645-3149.

Chamber music at Marygrove

Marygrove College will feature David Ireland, violin, and the Marygrove Trio in the fourth concert of its Saturdays at Four chamber music series this Saturday, March 27, at 4 p.m. in the Madam Cadillac Building's Denk Chapman Hall on the Marygrove campus, West McNichols at Wyoming.

Tickets at $5 general admission, $2.50 for students and senior citizens include both the performance and a post-performance meet-the-artists hors d'oeuvres and wine reception.

Ireland, assistant principal violinist of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, is active as a solo performer and has made numerous appearances as a chamber musician on the Laudenslager Music Series and the Detroit Chamber Works.

The Marygrove Trio — all, like Ireland, well known Detroit area professional musicians — consists of Lawrence LaGore, of Three Mile Drive, piano; James Waring, DSO member, violin; and Mario DiFiore, DSO member, cello.

The program features a contrast for piano and strings and includes Beethoven's classical Trio in C Minor, Opus 1, No. 3, Aaron Copland's contemporary Sonata for Violin and Piano and Schumann's romantic Piano Quartet, Opus 47.

Further information on the concert and the series, which continues with programs on April 17 and May 1, may be obtained by contacting Sue Ann Vanderbeck, managing director of Saturdays at Four and coordinator of the Marygrove Music Department, at 862-8000, Extension 290.

Met auditions first for Segar

For the first time since 1977, when Grosse Pointe's Elizabeth Parcellis finished as a finalist, one of the Detroit Grand Opera Association's local scholarship winners, Kathleen Segar, of Detroit, has been selected a first place winner in the Metropolitan Opera National Council Auditions.

Twenty-two semi-finalists from 16 districts throughout the United States participated in the final auditions competition Sunday, March 14, in New York's Metropolitan Opera House. Each of the 11 finalists receives $5,000 plus the opportunity for vocal coaching through the Metropolitan. All perform in a winners' concert at the Met this month, where they will be exposed to agents, music directors, critics and impresarios.

Kathleen, who holds Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees in Voice from the University of Michigan, is currently a student of Rosemary Russell and a Michigan Opera Theatre Resident Intern. She has performed extensively with the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and has appeared with the Ann Arbor, Toledo, Jackson and Grand Rapids Symphonies and the Northern Indiana Opera.

This handsome bunch of intellectuals at Our Lady Star of the Sea are all smiles because they recently placed second in an academic olympics competition at Notre Dame High School. Each competed in his area of expertise for individual awards along with students from 12 local elementary schools. St. John of Arc placed first, but Star students Chris Opirari placed first in math, Ray Quasarano

Theater plans 'Funny Girl' auditions

Grosse Pointe Theater will hold auditions for the musical comedy, "Funny Girl" at the War Memorial Fries Auditorium, 32 Lakeshore Road, on Saturday and Sunday, March 27 and 28 from 1 to 5 p.m.

With book by Isobel Lennart and music and lyrics by Jule Styne and Bob Merrill, "Funny Girl" covers the life of Broadway star Fanny Brice from her early life through her rise to stardom and her ill-fated marriage to Nick Arnstein. The original Broadway production vaulted Barbara Streisand to stardom, singing music including "People," "The Music That Makes Me Dance" and "Don't Rain on My Parade."

The production will be under the direction of Robert McKenna of Nottingham Road.

There are numerous chorus and small speaking parts for both men and women. Almost all cast members will be required to sing, and there are several dance numbers, including two tap numbers. (Not all singers need to be dancers, and not all dancers need be singers.) Director McKenna advises that he will not be looking for Barbara Streisand for Fanny, but that he will be looking for someone to make the audience believe they are watching Fanny Brice. He also warns that the role of Fanny is of extremely wide vocal range, having been specifically written for Streisand's unusual voice.

The breakdown of principal roles for "Funny Girl" is as follows:

- Fanny Brice — At the opening she is a brassy kid who believes in her own talent. Fanny was a very strong woman, with vision and determination. She never doubted that she would be a major star of the Broadway Theatre. Her weakness turned out to be Nick Arnstein. She must sing and dance — she must be able to croon a torch song and belt out "Cornet Man" or "Don't Rain On My Parade" — the dancing includes tap.

- Nick Arnstein — Should be 25 to 30, complementary to Fanny's age. Sophisticated, poised and polished. He sings "You Are Woman" and the reprise to "Don't Rain on my Parade." Does not need to dance, but should be able to move to music.

- Mrs. Brice — She is middle-aged — not old. She sings "If A Girl Isn't Pretty" — "I Taught Her Everything She Knows" — "Henry Street." Again must be able to dance. Vocal range: Medium.

- Mrs. Strakosh — Mrs. Brice's friend. Runs through the show — Sings "If A Girl Isn't Pretty" is also in the "Happy Street Number," must be able to move to music. Dialect.

- Tom Keeney — Owner of Keeney's Music Hall — Middle-aged. Non-singing role. Typical theatre manager of the day. He is a brash, likeable no-nonsense business man.

- Eddie Ryan — A song and dance man who becomes Fanny's best friend. He must be able to sing and dance well, including tap. He appears in several of the shows major musical numbers and runs throughout the play.

- Florenz Ziegfeld — A polished, sophisticated, well-groomed gentleman. There is about him an air of elegance not seen much today. Appears in eight scenes of the show. Non-singing role.

- Mr. Renaldi — Appears in only one scene of the show, but a very important scene. Can be any age from 25 on up. Non-singing role.

- Emma — Fanny's maid, what-have-you — non-singing — she appears in six scenes of the show. Can be any age.

Wellesley seeks summer explorers

A special meeting for teenage boys and girls and their parents and friends from the Pointe and surrounding communities has been scheduled for Monday, March 29, from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. at the War Memorial.

The purpose of the meeting is to acquaint the community with the Exploration Summer Program for Teenagers which will be held at the Wellesley College Campus in suburban Boston, Mass. again this summer.

Last summer over 950 participants attended Exploration's residential and day program. Teenagers came to Exploration in 1981 from 32 states and 15 foreign countries including Ireland, Finland, England, Venezuela, France and Israel. In addition some Greater Boston students also chose the residential option and lived in the Wellesley College dormitories with the out-of-state participants.

Exploration is entering its sixth season this coming summer. Exploration is open to all students entering grades nine to 12 who expect eventually to attend a four-year college.

According to Ann Singal, executive director of the non-profit program, "Exploration is neither a summer school, nor a summer camp. Some participants come to explore future career fields, or deepen interests in academic and enrichment areas. Others come to meet new people and form additional friendships. Still others want to experience the flavor of a college campus."

At Exploration, each participant attends two workshops of his or her choice in the mornings. These are selected from a range of fields including law, language, computers, astronomy, dance, psychology, physics; systems dynamics, government, photography and literature. This year SAT (Scholastic Aptitude Test) preparation will be offered.

The afternoon schedule includes mini courses, field trips, guest lectures, and sports such as tennis, softball, basketball and soccer. There will also be swimming and boating on Lake Waban, located on the Wellesley College campus.

A student may enroll for either or both of Exploration's three-week sessions. Admission is largely a self-selection process dependent on space being available in a workshop of the student's choice. This year there are more than 65 workshops to choose from.

Exploration attracts participants with a wide span of abilities ranging from average to advanced.

Further information about the meeting, and about the program can be obtained by calling at Exploration's office (617) 329-4488 during business hours, or by writing to Exploration, 124 High Rock Lane, Westwood, Ma. 02090.

Cottage sets free pressure tests

The Cottage Hospital Education department will hold a free blood pressure screening clinic, Wednesday, March 31, from 7 to 9 p.m. in boardrooms A and B in the hospital.

Cottage Hospital registered nurses will take blood pressure readings for anyone in the community on an informal, drop-in basis. Free literature on high blood pressure and other related illnesses will be available.

For more information about the free blood pressure clinic, or other upcoming health awareness programs, telephone 884-8600, Ext. 2390.

Bethel cites Walter Fords

Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Ford, II of Grosse Pointe Farms, were honored as the recipients of the 1982 Bethel A. M. E. Church Brotherhood Award at a service last month.

The Brotherhood Award, established in 1975, is given annually to a person who by pronouncement, commitment and involvement has furthered the cause of Brotherhood.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford are active in civic and institutional affairs.

Bethel A. M. E. Church, founded in 1841 is one of Detroit's first black congregations. It is located at 5050 St. Antoine at Warren Avenue.

Dr. Oscar E. Remick, president of Alma College, was the guest speaker for the occasion. Sister Agnes Mary Mansour, president of Mercy College, read the scripture; Tom Fox, director of Community Affairs, WJBK-TV, offered the morning prayer; Boris Sellers, director of Management, Founder's Society of Detroit, offered a special tribute.

Previous Brotherhood recipients are Frank Angelo, retired Free Press columnist; Rabbi Leon Fram, Temple Israel; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley S. Kresge; The Rev. Canon Malcolm G. Dade; the late Snow F. Grigsby; Dr. James J. McClendon; Father Malcolm Carron, S.J., former president, University of Detroit; and Ray W. Macdonald.

Schools promote Speakers' Bureau

The Grosse Pointe Public School System has established a Speakers' Bureau as a service for community organizations.

Sample topics available from the bureau include achievement levels of public school students, public library services and how negotiations with employe groups are conducted.

The Speakers' Bureau is composed of staff members who will often, use audio and visual effects as part of their presentations.

Organizations interested in using the bureau should contact the superintendent's office at 343-2012 at least two weeks in advance of the time the presentation is scheduled.

Pointer of Interest

By Janet Mueller

"I don't think of it," says Martha Borrego, "as a year you lose. It's a year you win." It's also a year that Our Lady Star of the Sea High School wins, for Martha's presence brings a new dimension to her classrooms, to the lives of her fellow students and to her teachers.

Martha, daughter of Mariano and Yolanda Borrego, of Chihuahua, Mexico, is spending a postgraduate high school year in the United States, living with her uncle and aunt, Dr. and Mrs. Jose Borrego, of Whittier Road, studying at Star of the Sea.

It's a family tradition. Martha's older brother, Luis, in college in Monterey, Mexico, now, spent his high school postgraduate year in Wisconsin, living with a priest and attending public school. And, when the time comes, Martha's younger sister, Anna Paula, 9, will go north of the border for her postgraduate high school year. "My parents believe that the opportunities for every child should be the same," Martha explains.

With one qualification. "I want you to go," said Yolanda Borrego to her older daughter, "But I want to know what you're doing. I want you to live with your aunt and uncle, to go to the same school as your cousin, Gigi."

No problem. Last August 23, Martha arrived in Michigan to begin her United States high school year. Most of her friends from Chihuahua were doing the same thing.

"WHEN YOU GO to college in Mexico," Martha explains, "You really need English. Almost all the texts are written in English. I had six years of English in Mexico, starting in grade school, but that was classroom English." Martha knew that, if she were to make a success of her college career, she'd have to refine her skills in speaking and writing English. Many of her Chihuahua high school classmates felt the same way.

So the pre-college year in a United States high school is not an unusual experience for young Mexicans. In Martha's case, the transition from one culture to another wasn't really much of a transition at all, for she stepped off the plane into the family of her uncle and aunt, whom she knew from their visits to Mexico.

Dr. and Mrs. Jose Borrego have five children. The two oldest are in college in Mexico. Paula, who is Martha's age, is a student at the University of Michigan. Fernanda, 20, a college student in Detroit, and Gigi, a junior at Star of the Sea, live at home.

Martha didn't have to become a member of the family. She already was one. She didn't have to cope with an "alien" culture, "exotic" foods . . . the Borregos of Grosse Pointe and the Borregos of Chihuahua have pretty much the same values, and as for cuisine: "We eat here like we do in Mexico — and we do have hamburgers there, you know!"

Which brings up a point Martha found strange when she first arrived, and still does: "Everyone here thinks Mexico is more exotic than it really is. Say 'Mexico' here, and the first thing everybody thinks of is an Indian. Of course we have Indians, but they're a minority. There's not any difference between the way people live here and the way they live in Mexico."

SHE RECALLS making an offhand remark about King Kong in front of some Star of the Sea friends, who were amazed. "Do you REALLY know about King Kong?" Martha, in turn, was amazed. "Of course I do! We get the same films you do." In fact, in Chihuahua, Martha and her friends go to the movies just about every Saturday.

OUR LADY STAR OF THE SEA HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT MARTHA BORREGO, OF WHITTIER ROAD AND CHIHUAHUA, MEXICO

"There's not much to do in Chihuahua," says Martha. (How many Grosse Pointe parents of teenagers have heard that one!) "It's a small city, about one-half million, very, very hot in the summer. You know everyone there." Chihuahua, according to Martha, is the sort of place where, if you want to go dancing, there's only one place to go.

Which brings up another point Martha found strange when she first arrived, and still does: "Here you can go to a dance, and not dance, and nobody thinks that's at all odd — everybody's having a good time. In Mexico, our parties are more formal. Here, it's more 'hanging around'."

From the first, Martha found her classmates at Star of the Sea "very, very friendly, very helpful." As the time to leave draws closer — graduation is in late May, and after that it's back to Mexico — she's becoming more and more aware of how much she will miss them. She wants them all to come and visit her, and she wants to return to Michigan to visit them. Eventually.

"It's a long time to be so far away from home. My mother misses me, and I miss her. My little sister is too young to really be a companion to my mother, to talk with her the way I do. I read a lot: I enjoy rather complicated novels, like 'Dr. Zhivago' and 'The Godfather,' and I think that is because my mother loves to read and has been guiding my reading since I was seven.

"I WILL BE going to college in Mexico. I've always enjoyed biology. At first I thought I might go into dentistry; now I'm more interested in working with the whole person, in the field of human relations. I think psychology may be my subject, but I haven't made a definite decision yet.

"When I first came, I understood more English than I could speak. I've learned how to write here, and not just in English: in Spanish, too. Learning a second language teaches you your own. I really, really enjoy speaking English, and I want to keep it up."

Martha also really, really enjoys skiing, and would like to keep it up — which will definitely NOT be easy for a Chihuahua-based person. She's had a wonderful time on weekend trips to the snowy slopes of northern Michigan. "I'd never skied before. I felt so silly! I fell down . . . and fell down . . . and fell down . . . Until she got the hang of it. Now she's the only person in Michigan who, after this horrendous winter, it sorry to see the snow go.

"I love snow!" When she went home in mid-year, to spend Christmas with her family in Mexico (her only home break during the year), there was no snow on the ground in southern Michigan. Martha felt a little cheated. When she came back after the first of the year, there was a dusting. "See," said her cousins and her Star of the Sea classmates, "we ordered it just for you."

They should have cancelled that order. After this winter, Martha can tell Chihuahua more about snow than any city that doesn't have to suffer through it needs to know.

WINTER, SUMMER, fall and spring, she thinks Grosse Pointe is beautiful. Lake St. Clair was a surprise. "We have lakes in Mexico. But I had never seen one so big!" And St. Clair isn't even a Great Lake. She's been delighted with her school. "Star of the Sea's teachers are really close to their students, and the girls are wonderful."

In her last Michigan months, she's been collecting matchbooks from every restaurant she visits, adding to the pictures, T-shirts, sweatshirts and other memorabilia she'll be taking back to Chihuahua. She'll be taking some tapes back, too. "When I came, I wasn't used to rock music. Now I like it."

She'll always be her own best souvenir of her year here. "It's added a marvelous dimension to my life." The advice she would give other Mexican students debating the value of a postgraduate high school year in the United States versus immediate entry into college is: Take the extra year. "I'd tell them to come," says Martha Borrego, who is awfully glad she did. "It's not a year you lose. It's a year you win."

Elegant Eating

A selection of recipes from the forthcoming low-calorie, low-cholesterol — and penny-wise — cookbook by Thyra Grey Howard and Helena DeWitt Roth presenting, this week, accompaniments to last week's main course of a delicious GREEK DINNER.

PAUL'S GREEK SALAD

- 1 medium head lettuce
- 1 medium cucumber
- 16 ripe olives
- 1 cup diced celery
- 1/2 cup sliced green onions including some tops
- 1-1/2 cups cubed cooked beets
- 8 oz. Feta cheese
- 4 Tbsp. olive oil
- 8 Tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 1 tsp. oregano

Break lettuce into bite size pieces, add cucumber, olives, celery, onions, beets and toss. Spoon into individual salad bowls. Top with one ounce of Feta cheese.

In a small bowl, combine olive oil, vinegar and oregano. Stir to blend well. Just before serving spoon about 3 teaspoons of dressing over each salad. Makes 8 servings.

Calories per serving about 138. Cholesterol about 80 mgs.

VARIATIONS: Greek olives are delicious but much higher in calories. Interesting changes may also be made by substituting purple onion rings for green onions or lemon juice for the wine vinegar.

RASPBERRY CREAM TORTE

- 1 angel food cake (10-inches)
- 1 jar (12 oz.) low sugar, seedless red raspberry jam
- 3 cups whipped Dream Whip
- 1/4 cup unsweetened cocoa, sifted
- 1/4 cup confectioner's sugar

Split cake horizontally into 4 layers. Stack layers on serving plate with jam between each layer.

Whip Dream Whip for about 2 minutes, then beat in cocoa and confectioner's sugar; beat until stiff enough to ice cake. Spread on sides and top of cake. Chill. Serves 12.

Calories per slice about 244. Cholesterol - trace.

An illuminating Phase I night

Marcello Galluppi, astrologer, lecturer, writer and teacher whose "Illuminations" program is aired weekly on Cox Cable TV, will touch on hypnosis, magic, psychics, dreams, ghosts, witchcraft, palmistry and numerology in a program for Phase I, the organization of single, young adults, ages 20 through 39, who meet regularly Sunday evenings at Grosse Pointe Memorial Church, at 7:45 p.m. this Sunday, March 28.

Phase I has planned a theater party for a week from tomorrow, Friday, April 2. Car pools will be formed to travel to Meadow Brook for an 8:30 p.m. performance of Frederick Knott's "Wait Until Dark." Tickets are $10 per person. Further information may be obtained by calling 776-5277.

Notre Dame to host antique show/sale

The Notre Dame High School and Notre Dame Parents' Guild will present an antique show and sale featuring 50 dealers Friday, March 26, from 5 to 10 p.m., and Saturday, March 27, from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. in Tom Kelly Gym at the school on Kelly Road in Harper Woods, next to Eastland. An Irish deli will be open during show hours, offering hot and cold snacks. A Bake Sale is among Saturday's activities. Admission donation is 50 cents, including a chance to take home a special prize.

To cite Advertising Woman of the Year

The Women's Advertising Club of Detroit is conducting its annual search for Detroit's outstanding Advertising Woman. Competition is open to all women in the area who actively perform, administrate or teach one or more of the recognized creative or administrative functions of the advertising and communications professions. The 1982 Advertising Woman of the Year Banquet will be held Wednesday, April 28, at the Grosse Pointe Yacht Club.

Nominations may be made by submitting a concise resume of the candidate's career, containing the following information:

- Chronological outline of career in advertising/communications (year included).
- New concepts, innovations or practices contributed by nominee to increase the stature of the advertising profession; in other words, any "firsts."

Explanation of how her career has contributed to the general raising of the standards of the advertising/communications profession.

- Contributions to the professional development of others, either directly through her job or indirectly through outside activities. Contributions to her profession and the people in it beyond the requirements of her job.
- How well the nominee is known professionally. Any awards, civic contributions and other pertinent information which make the candidate especially qualified for this recognition.

A letter of introduction should accompany each entry. Nomination forms must be postmarked by March 28, and mailed to Ms. Mary Ann Geon, Ad Woman of the Year chairperson, 2630 Book Tower, Detroit, Mich. 48226

Neighborhood Club crowns cage champs

After a 266-game season, the Neighborhood Club men's basketball league schedule has come to an end. Champions in six divisions were determined in championship games following the regular season. Over 400 men participated on 39 teams and although the Neighborhood Club guarantees a minimum nine game schedule to all teams, 79 percent of the teams played 10 or more games—making this a record setting year for the league.

UPPER DIVISION TOURNAMENT

Favorites...

Nope, this is not an illustration of what happens when push comes to shove. It's South's favorite commercial foods teacher, John "Shafer Boy" Shafer, at right, trying his wrestling recipe on 11-time A.A.U. champion Greg Wojciechowski, left. It appears, however, that Shafer's goose was quickly cooked.

Great wrestling on a not-so-super night for South

By Peggy O'Connor

"Cowboy" Frankie Lane's fans were there. They were the ones wearing the heavy eye makeup and adoring looks who squealed when their cowboy-booted hero stepped into the ring. The Patriot was there, too. He and Toronto wrestler John Bonello had a knock-down-drag-out match that ended up with both wrestlers disqualified for leaving the ring and practicing their holds on security guards who had to drag them out of the ringside seats.

"Iron Mike" Anthony, of Chicago, Ill., was there, as was Dr. X (parts unknown). Unfortunately, the only thing missing from South High Schools' March 19 fundraiser, Superstars of Wrestling, was an audience, as Iron Mike and the rest did their stuff for a crowd made up mostly of fans who came dressed as empty seats.

According to class sponsor Carl Justice, a mathematics instructor at South, who helped run the event, only 383 people paid their way into the match, a figure far below what organizers felt the junior-senior class fundraiser would draw.

"I'm disappointed and upset... I don't like to waste money," Justice said. He added that considering total costs, South fell nearly $1,000 short of breaking even on the event.

"WHEN we talked about this and planned it, we were told it was a good idea for a fundraiser, to go ahead and do it. We thought it was something different that would catch on.

"Mr. Mackey (math teacher Walt Mackey) and myself... did a lot of work on this, but we didn't get the community support we expected. This could have been profitable and successful for the classes.

"But we didn't receive the support from the people we needed it from." Funds from the event were to go to South's junior and senior classes to offset costs of proms, graduation and other events. Ticket prices ranged from $5 to $10 and South students were given a number of tickets to sell.

"Was $5 too much for some seats? ... I just don't know. The $10 seats were no problem. Percentage-wise, we sold a greater number of the $10 seats than the other types of seating," Justice said.

JUSTICE said that some South senior class officers and other students were given 25 tickets to sell and that they would come back with the 25 tickets unsold. "Very few students sold more than one ticket." "There was just a lack of enthusiastic effort on the part of students and the community," Justice said.

The real disappointment, he added, was that it was "a good show and the people who were there enjoyed themselves."

One of the people who was there was Karen Kingstrom, of Hazel Park. Admittedly, she had more reason than most to come to South High for a wrestling match—her fiancée, Dennis Kasprovic, is a wrestler. He and "Iron Mike" Anthony wrestled to a draw in the first bout. But Kingstrom says even if Kasprovic wasn't a wrestler, she might be tempted to see a wrestling match or two. "I think I'd go... I'll try anything once."

"Really, it has gotten a lot more exciting since I've tuned into it," Kingstrom added.

AIR FORCE Officer Recruiter Sgt. Ken Wellertter, his brother Paul and a female companion had front row seats for the action. They said they didn't mind the $10 price tag on those seats (and they looked as though they didn't mind being in the very center of the ringside "action" during the Bonello-Patriot match).

"Why are we here? We don't know any better," Sgt. Wellertter said. "No really, my first wife was a wrestler and we're hoping she'll be here tonight."

"We just love this stuff," Sgt. Wellertter said, finally getting serious about being serious about wrestling.

Most of the 383 folks who did show up last Friday seemed to love "this stuff" as well, booing and cheering in all the right spots. "Cowboy" Frankie Lane taunted the crowd and he got the boos. Greg Wojciechowski, an 11-time National A.A.U. heavy-weight champion was a favorite. He took care of "Cowboy" and he got the cheers.

Wojciechowski remained a favorite even after he had put South's commercial foods teacher, John "Shafer Boy" Shafer away after 4:31 in a one fall "Superspecial match." Even Shafer admitted that Wojo was still his favorite.

"He's really strong. I tried some technical moves—he has all the elementary stuff—he had counter moves for every one," Shafer said. "When I tried one move and I couldn't even get started, I knew I was in trouble." Shafer didn't say when that was, but from a spectator's point of view, it was probably in the first minute.

Still, Shafer had felt he would make a "better showing." And he might have, too, if "Wojo's" card hadn't been switched around. "They played a dirty trick on me and switched the sequence. I was supposed to wrestle Wojo after he wrestled 'Cowboy' Lane."

"When I got dressed they saw I was a fairly big guy myself and they switched the order so Wojo could wrestle me when he was fresh," Shafer said.

Changing into wrestling gear was Shafer's big mistake. He should have come dressed as an empty seat instead of a wrestler — they never would have found him.

Family Fun Run set for April 4

To the Classified Advertising Staff:
We of the Northern Suburbs Animal Welfare League wish to thank you for your kindness in running our advertisements in your Grosse Pointe News "lost and found" columns.
Because of your help we have been able to find homes for pets who otherwise might be destroyed due to overcrowded foster homes.
The League houses animals temporarily in private foster homes until permanent adoption can be arranged. These animals come from several sources with the majority being rescued from pounds and shelters. All are homeless and helpless and most face certain destruction. Those we are able to save receive prompt and complete medical attention and neutering.
Again, on behalf of Big Red, Sampson, Bentley, Spirit, Panda, Lindsey and Ryan we of the Animal Welfare League deeply appreciate your help.
Sincerely,
Margaret Strelow
Note: The League is a full spectrum, non-profit human organization and our members are currently housing 108 dogs and 78 cats.

GP Islanders win state title

The Grosse Pointe Islanders wrapped up the Midget B State Hockey Championship by defeating the Jackson Midgets in a thrilling, 6-3 victory March 14.

The Grosse Pointe Islanders, coached by Rick Carlson and Jim Flannery, began the state tournament March 12 by tying their opponent from L'Anse, Michigan, 4-4. They soundly defeated the Lincoln Park Bulldogs, 10-3, and Jackson Midgets, 6-3 on March 13.

The semi-finals pitted the Islanders against the Port Huron Midgets. A 7-5 victory sent the Islanders to the finals. "Everyone on the team gave an all out performance," said, Bill Davenport, team manager.

Team members include goalies Rob Bowen and Don McClone. Helping with defense were Brad Heaven, Gary Dennis, Scott Gneiser and Bill Casker. Kevin Dundon, Todd Raleigh, Bob Davenport, Jim Trybus, Jim Aley, Frank Murray, Mark Dobson, Mark Bierley, Craig Capps and Dave Sattler played forward positions.

Sumbera named coach of year

The Michigan High School Coaches' Association will honor Frank Sumbera, North High School's Baseball coach, as 1982 Baseball Coach of the Year. A plaque will be presented to Sumbera and official recognition of the honor will be given to him during the boys' state basketball finals, March 27.

Sumbera has been baseball coach at North since 1972 and last fall accepted the assignment of football coach.

Ski mentor is honored

Terry Edwards, of Moross Road, was honored for her many years of service to the United States Ski Association Racing Program at the final banquet for Region III of the Central Division of the USSA (CUSSA) held at the Petoskey Holiday Inn March 6. Mrs. Edwards and her family have been active in skiing for many years; her daughter Tracy has been racing in the program for eight years. Mrs. Edwards is treasurer for Ski Racing Patrons and was a founder of Metropolitan Detroit Ski Council, an organization of recreational ski clubs. As Terry Thomas, she was ski writer at the Detroit Free Press from 1962 to 1966. Above, Mrs. Edwards is pictured receiving her plaque from James Kuhn, regional chairman of CUSSA.

Cathy Schmidt

Schmidt sets record

Grosse Pointe North High School graduate Kathy Schmidt became a two-time national champion at the NAIA National Indoor Track and Field Championships held in Kansas City Feb. 27 and 28.

Schmidt, a Saginaw Valley State College freshman, placed first in the 880 yard run (2:18.95) and in the 1,000 yard run (2:39.83). Her preliminary time of 2:39.38 in the 1,000 yard run is a new NAIA record. Schmidt, who was named the meet's most valuable performer, also won All-American honors for her anchoring of the two-mile relay (9:24.09), which set a new school record.

The Saginaw Valley Lady Cardinal track team, in only its second year of existence, placed third in the national meet. SVSC's men's team won the national championship.

Star spikers end year at 6-4

Our Lady Star of the Sea High School's varsity spikers, coached by Margaret Spindler, finished the 1982 volleyball season with a 6-4 record. The girls earned a second place standing in the C-D league and an opportunity to advance to the city playoffs.

A strong victory over undefeated St. Agatha moved Star's team into the second round of city playoffs on Feb. 20 before a loss to Our Lady of the Lakes ended Star's city playoff hopes. The spikers also had a chance to enter district play, but lost to St. Clement in pre-district competition.

Several varsity members were honored for their outstanding play throughout the volleyball season. Senior Lucie Cooper received All-Catholic and All-League recognition and Juniors Carolyn Schnitzer, Tracy Flney and Colette Elie and senior Carol McCormick received All-League honors.

Juniors Cathy McCabe, Marie Halter and Nancy Calcaterra received honorable mention recognition. Coach Spindler also was congratulated for her outstanding premier season as volleyball coach.

More than 1,000 cheerleaders on 103 squads are participating in the event, the C.Y.O.'s 17th annual competition. Of the 67 teams in the eighth grade division, the top six teams will advance through preliminary competition to the St. Paul finals.

High School varsity cheerleading coaches will serve as judges for the finals. A winner and four runners-up will be selected. Detroit's St. Raymond is the defending champion.

Admission to all tournament events is $1 for adults and 50 cents for students.

Blues win bantam tourney

The Grosse Pointe Bantam B Blues won the recent University Liggett Fellowship Cup Hockey Tournament in a come-from-behind effort. After losing the first game, 7-3, the Blues went on to tie the St. Clair Shores Pistons, 1-1.

Scoring for the Blues in the first game were Chris Clogg, who had two goals, and Richard Pisogna. George Krappman, Dave Lester, Clogg and Pisogna drew assists. The Blues' only goal in the second game came from Lester; Clogg assisting.

Needing to win by five goals in the third game in order to reach the finals, the Blues did just that by defeating the St. Clair Shores Bruins, 5-0. The Blues stormed out in the first period and got goals from Krappman, Kirk Haggarty and Clogg. Assists went to Haggarty, who had two, and Krappman, who earned the three-assist playmaker award.

The second period was scoreless, thanks to the tough goaltending of Bill Tecos, the Blues' goalie, and Mark Farrell, the Bruins' goaltender. Blues' defensemen Brian Francis, Mike Amore, John Rajt and Chris Murray also turned in excellent performances.

The Blues went into the third period needing one more goal—that came from Clogg, who converted a Pisogna pass. The Blues won the contest, 5-0, and earned the right to compete in the championship game with Liggett.

In that game, the Blues jumped out to a quick lead with a first period goal by Pisogna; Steve Gaskin and Krappman assisting. Early in the second period Liggett's Paul Smith scored; John Birgbauer and Doug Avedisian assisting.

The Blues scored two more goals in the second period. Pisogna notched an unassisted tally and Haggarty got the second goal; Francis and Krappman assisting. The only goal in the third period came from the stick of Krappman. Murray drew an assist on the play. The 4-1 win gave the Blues the championship and marked the second straight year that a Grosse Pointe team has won the tournament trophy.
